LBJ PRIORITY REQUEST . . .

House Passes 'True Rate' Bill

Washington (UPI) — The House overwhelmingly approved a bill Thursday that would require all banks and stores to state exact interest charges on an annual basis for loans and goods bought on installment plans.

Approval of the so-called truth-in-lending bill by a roll call vote of 382 to 4 was the first major House action this year and a victory for one of President Johnson's priority legislative requests. The measure was returned to the Senate, which approved a milder version of the bill last year.

The House measure would require—without exception — that all stores divulge all customer charges in terms of an annual interest rate for time purchases of everything from automobiles to television sets.

Annual Rate

For example, a store now advertising that goods can be bought for a charge of 1½% a month would have to state the same interest rate as 18% a year when the interest is charged each month on the balance due. This is the method used in revolving charge accounts most commonly featured by big department stores.

The Senate bill would exempt department stores using revolving charge accounts, permitting them to state a monthly interest rate.

The maximum penalty for violations under the House bill would be a $5,000 fine and one year in prison.

Sharking Hit

Republicans stole the march on President Johnson's anticrime campaign by wining House approval of their proposal for a federal crackdown on loan sharking, an underworld practice of lending money at exorbitant interest rates.

On a 383-5 roll call vote, the House endorsed an amendment offered by Rep. Richard H. Poff, R-Va., that would make it a federal crime for violation of any state's laws outlawing loan sharking. The maximum penalty for violation would be $10,000 in fines and 10 years in prison.

The House bill also would require advertising, as well as verbal discussions by salesmen, to specify annual interest rates when terms are mentioned.

National Council

It would set up a national commission on consumer finance to investigate the burgeoning business of consumer credit.

Another provision, adopted on a 101-98 nonrecord vote over Republican and Southern Democratic objections, would sharply restrict the amount of a worker's salary a bill collector can attach to satisfy debts.

Designed to halt the increase in bankruptcy proceedings, the amendment would restrict wage garnishment to 10% of a weekly paycheck above the first $30.

Speaker John W. McCormack told the House the measure was "one of the most important bills to pass Congress in many decades."

RED DRIVE IN FOURTH DAY

Battle In Hue Savage; Over 10,000 Reds Dead

. . . FIGHTING FIRE PERSISTS IN SAIGON

SOUTH VIETNAMESE . . . officer carries dead child from home. Cong executed his family while he led troops.

Saigon (AP) — U.S. Marines and Vietnam government forces fought the Communists savagely for possession of the old imperial city of Hue Friday in the fourth day of coordinated nationwide Red assaults.

By allied count, the Communists had paid with 10,553 dead for their attacks throughout the country.

Citadel Bombed

South Vietnamese jets dive-bombed the citadel in the heart of Hue where an estimated 2,000 entrenched North Vietnamese troops and Viet Cong had set up a revolutionary council.

American Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen moving behind tank columns, battled the Communists in several parts of the historic walled city 400 miles northeast of Saigon.

Scattered fighting continued in Saigon during the night, but the focus of the 4-day-old Red offensive shifted to the struggle for Hue and heavy action in other cities.

A Hanoi broadcast claimed that attacks were under way against more than 40 South Vietnamese towns and cities.

11½-1 Kill Ratio

But the U.S. command claimed the Reds were paying dearly, with allied forces killing Communists at the rate of 11.5 to 1, and added that allied forces also captured 3,076 enemy suspects and seized 2,100 weapons.

U.S. casualties were announced as 281 killed and 1,195 wounded in the period from 6 p.m. Monday to midnight Thursday. South Vietnamese killed were listed as 632.

Quang Tri city, 19 miles below the demilitarized zone, was reported in U.S. hands after two days of heavy fighting. U.S. air cavalrymen were flown in Thursday.

2 More Capitals

But fighting was continued in My Tho, biggest city of the fertile Mekong Delta 80 miles south of Saigon. Attacks were reported for the first time on two more provincial capitals, Baria, 30 miles southeast of Saigon, and Phu Cuong, north of Saigon.

The U.S. command said: "Although the enemy raided numerous cities and towns throughout the republic and achieved some temporary successes, they have failed to take and hold any major installations or localities. Although some enemy units are still occupying positions in a few cities, they are repidly being driven out."

Earlier Gen. William C. Westmoreland said the Red drive was being blunted. He told newsmen it was a go for broke proposition and there is evidence to suggest the enemy "is about to run out of steam."

'We Are Watching'

"He has, however, some reserves yet to be committed," said the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. "We are watching this."

There was scattered action in Saigon during the night, with roving bands of Viet Cong exchanging sniper fire with troops and police.

An ammunition dump about five miles northwest of Saigon was blown up at 5 a.m.

Bridge Raided

A Viet Cong squad attacked a bridge on the Vien Hoa highway about four miles north of the capital and held one end until driven off by U.S. mechanized infantry. Eleven Viet Cong were reported killed.

There was an outburst of small-arms fire in the heart of Saigon about 8:30 a.m. Friday, but it was believed troops and police were firing into the air to clear persons off the streets.

Some traffic and a few pedestrians had begun to move on the streets soon after daylight.

N. Viets In Saigon

North Vietnamese troops were reported operating alongside Viet Cong in Saigon for the first time. Allied authorities said they were among five enemy battalions — perhaps 2,000 men — which opened the attack on the South Vietnamese capital Tuesday.

Westmoreland told newsmen he believed the Communists' campaign is a prelude for their biggest push of the war, to be staged in the northern sector adjoining the DMZ. This main effort "could come at any time," he said.

Hossack To Ready Road Project Plan

. . . SEEK FUNDS

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann Thursday directed the state Roads Department to compile a project-by-project breakdown on highway construction in Nebraska in hopes of unlocking federal funds.

He said the list will show the development phase of each job, estimated cost and when federal matching dollars are needed most to permit completion.

"It will work on a 30 days, 60 days, 90 days and so forth basis," the governor told newsmen.

He said John W. Hossack, state highway engineer, will deliver the study to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads in Washington, D.C., after it is completed.

"Mr. Hossack will then use this information to negotiate with the bureau for funding the projects," Tiemann said. "This way we hope to reduce delays in our construction program."

The governor ordered the survey upon return to Nebraska from a conference in Washington with U.S. Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd about the recently-announced $800 million cutback in federal highway funds.

Nebraska's portion of the reduction has been estimated at $8 million, based on a federal guideline that 5% of the funds allocated to each state last year will be withheld this year.

However, Tiemann said Boyd told him this 5% standard was "not a hard, fast rule." He said Boyd indicated there was no intention to hold up projects that were ready to roll.

Hossack said Nebraska plans to improve 240 miles of primary and secondary highways in 1968 as well as major interstate work in Omaha and western Nebraska.

He added, however, that the construction timetable would have to be moved back on some of the work unless federal matching money were available.

Criminology Expert No 'Ivory Tower Theorist'

. . . PERL TO BEGIN STUDY FOR LEGISLATURE WITH VISIT TO KEARNEY

By JIM ADAMS
AP Regional Service

Washington (AP) — A Washington, D.C., criminology expert goes to Nebraska March 1 to help overhaul its law enforcement system — starting with the troubled Boys Training School at Kearney.

He is Dr. William R. Perl, a white-haired, pipe-smoking psychologist - criminologist - professor who says he is no "ivory tower theorist."

Perl has been hired by the Nebraska legislature as consultant and researcher for a committee studying law enforcement and administration of justice in the state.

Study Kearney

His first assignment from the committee is to study the situation at Kearney, he said in an interview. And he said he plans to live in the center several days to learn conditions there first-hand.

Charges of homosexuality, unqualified staff personnel and failure to rehabilitate delinquent inmates were leveled this month at hearing before the state Public Institutions Advisory Board.

Perl would not comment on the charges but said, one of his duties will be to look into them.

Staff Check

More basically, he said, he wants to find out what kind of staff the institution has and how well it rehabilitates boys as well as confining them.

"I must see to what degree it is custodial," he said, "and to what degree it aims to change the tracks of these boys. These boys are running in tracks of failure."

Perl said he hopes to have a preliminary study on Kearney ready for the committee this summer and a report on the full law enforcement study a year after he starts.

Up To Committee

How will he approach the full study?

"After Kearney I don't know," he said. "That depends on what the committee wants me to do."

Perl said he intends to apply specific principles to Nebraska's law enforcement, NOT general ones, and said he will NOT know what the state needs until he sees what conditions are.

But he said there are general principles that apply anywhere.

Community Action

One, he said, is that the whole community must help a man with a prison record rehabilitate himself by taking him in as a fellow citizen and not treating him as an outcast.

"I want to activate the community-churches, civic groups and most especially groups of people his same age—to prevent the conditions that sent him to prison," Perl said.

"Let's say Jack is sent to Kearney," he said. "I want to organize so Jack's non-criminal friends will take him in and make him one of their own when he gets back.

Jobs Different

"Jobs are a different problem. But if a man is in a good crowd he has the motivation to maintain a good job."

Motivation, Perl said, is the key to rehabilitation.

He said he hopes to organize a group of former convicts in Nebraska who are doing well now to work with young delinquents much along the lines of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Perl does not hold that society or parents or the community are to blame when a man turns to crime. But he said society must share some of the responsibility.

Wishy Washy

"Everybody is getting wishy washy today," he said. "Many parents do not tell their children what is right and what is wrong.

"One reason for the rise in delinquency," he said, "is that society abdicates its duty to state what it considers right and wrong and to protect itself against wrongdoing.

"This gives a child more responsibility than he can handle. And anxiety creates hostility — against himself and against society from which the anxiety comes."

For 30 Years

Perl has been working with delinquents and criminals nearly 30 years now, beginning in his native Austria. He earned his doctorate at the University of Vienna there in correctional psychology and criminology.

A Jew, active in his church, he fled Austria in 1938 when Hitler's troops moved in. Two years later he came to America where he became an Army intelligence officer.

He was a member of the American war crimes trial staff and later spent three years developing programs against crime by American soldiers in southern Germany.

Prison Aide

He was chief psychologist at the Fort Leavenworth military prison for four years and consultant to the federal penitentiary nearby.

For the past nine years Perl has been chief psychologist at the District of Columbia Children's Center and psychology consultant at the welfare department to which juvenile delinquents are referred.

Along the way he earned a degree in psychology at Columbia University in New York City.

Professor

He is a professor of psychology and criminology at George Washington University, on leave of absence for the Nebraska study.

Perl will take his wife and wire-haired fox terrior "Peppy" to Nebraska with him. Two sons, one about to enter the U.S. foreign service and the other still in high school, will remain behind.

The criminologist looks forward to the trip.

"I think you can do a lot there," he said, "because people in Nebraska want to improve their law enforcement. They're the only ones who can."

U.S. To Try Again At Panmunjom

. . . SPECIALISTS IN RESERVES MAY BE CALLED

Washington (UPI) — The State Department Thursday accepted a North Korean suggestion that talks to retrieve the captured USS Pueblo be held at Panmunjom.

Meanwhile, there were indications President Johnson was thinking of calling up more reserves.
more reserves and extending military enlistments.

A spokesman said it was not known when U.S. officials could meet with North Korean representatives at the Korean peace site, but the State Department's attitude was "the sooner the better."

The incident was raised unsuccessfully last week at Panmunjom.

With all apparent United Nations avenues to freeing the Pueblo and its 83-man crew blocked, two key senators suggested that President Johnson was considering calling up reserve specialists to help meet mounting pressures in Korea and in Vietnam. The White House indicated this may be true.

Meanwhile, Moscow radio said a second American spy ship similar to the Pueblo was headed toward North Korean waters accompanied by the cruiser Providence and the carrier Yorktown. Soviet trawlers have been reported shadowing U.S. ships in the Sea of Japan.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey noted an English-language broadcast from North Korea Wednesday rejected any U.N. settlement of the Pueblo seizure, and said any negotiations would have to be at the military armistice commission, which sits at Panmunjom.

"The United States is prepared to deal with the matter through this channel," McCloskey said. But he declined to say if current efforts to resolve the matter at the U.N. would be abandoned.

South Korea Advocates Retaliation

(New York Times Service)

Seoul, South Korea—Premier Chung Il Kwon declared Thursday that South Korea "should immediately take punitive action" against North Korea for recent infiltration into the South and the seizure of a U.S. ship if Seoul "could obtain international cooperation" in the move.

President Chung Hee Park also warned of possible South Korean retaliation against North Korea for its "provocations" including a reported attempt against his life Jan. 21 and seizure of the Pueblo two days later.

"There is a limit to our patience and self restraint," the premier said. "It is a question of why we must unilaterally abide by the armistice agreement and take only passive action . . . while Communists are sending army regulars to engage in destructive activities at will," said the 50-year-old premier, who as an army general had commanded all South Korean forces at the height of the Korean War.

He addressed the South Korean national assembly, which opened a special session Wednesday to discuss the crisis arising out of intensified North Korean infiltration and the Pueblo incident.

GIs, Infiltrators Clash At Border

Seoul (UPI) — U.S. troops guarding the western sector of the Korean border clashed in a firefight Thursday with a group of North Korean infiltrators.

A U.N. command spokesman said the shooting incident took place shortly after midnight when as estimated three or four infiltrators exchanged fire with American defenders across the defense barrier in the American sector of the demarcation line separating North and South Korea.

The spokesman said there were no American casualties in the firefight, and it was not known whether the North Koreans suffered any losses.

Anti-Tax Drive Head Unworried About Lag

By RICK AKIN
Associated Press Writer

How goes Omaha tire dealer John M. Graff's petition drive to abolish both sales and income taxes in Nebraska?

"Right now I'd say we're a little behind," Graff said in a telephone interview. "But we're not worried about it. When spring comes we'll really give it the works."

Graff on Nov. 17 filed documents with the secretary of state necessary to open the petition drive. It was the first of at least four initiative petition efforts, intended or under way, to be formally launched.

Need 46,640

The Graff-instituted Nebraska Committee Opposed to the Sales-Income Tax needs 460,640 properly distributed signatures for presentation to the secretary of state by July 5. If the petitions prove sufficient, the issue goes on the Nov. 5 ballot as a proposal for a constitutional amendment banning sales and income taxes.

"We have about 1,000 signatures from Omaha and I would judge about 1,000 from outlying counties," Graff said.

Approximately 1,000 petitions have been distributed, each with space for 20 names, he said.

Many Requests

Requests for petitions come to the Graff home daily and "we send them on if they say they'll get signatures locally or if they say they will cover the whole county," he said. "There's no sense sending people a bunch of them if they're not going to get them signed."

So far citizens in 20 counties have been approached with the opportunity to sign, but success has been mostly in Omaha, Graff said.

Warmer spring weather when presently brisk tire business normally slacks off will allow Graff to make more personal contact outside of Omaha, he said.

Doing Funding

Asked about funds for the petition effort, Graff said: "You're talking to the guy doing the funding. We've spent about $175 to $200, and about $100 of it has come from my own pocket."

He said people have been reluctant to contribute "because they thought I might be sticking it into my own pocket." Last Friday the sponsoring committee filed articles of incorporation which Graff said he feels will help the funding cause.

The committee has planned an advertising campaign in county and urban newspapers, Graff said. "I figure it will cost us $100 for three or four lines (of classified advertising) and we'll let them run for a week or so."

U.S. 'Will Never Yield'

Washington—"The enemy will fail again and again because we Americans will never yield," said President Johnson. He predicted that there would be an American victory in Khe Sanh also. McNamara Reports On Vietnam

Washington — Defense Secretary McNamara gave an appraisal of "eneven progress" by the allies in Vietnam over the last 30 months. In his last annual report to Congress, prepared before the latest wave of attacks, he spoke frankly of the frustrations and "relatively slow pace of the pacification program" and said the enemy was still "a formidable threat."

Stennis Shocked

Washington—Shocked by the attacks in Vietnam, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss. called them "embarrassing" and "humiliating." Middle-of-the-roaders who had supported the administration expressed resentment. "I thought we were supposed to be winning this war," said one senator. Doves saw their criticisms sustained; hawks suggested that the terrorism was the "death rattle" of the Viet Cong.

Wage Restraint Urged

Washington—Inflation will continue at its rapid pace if union wage settlements this year are not "appreciably lower" than last year's average increase of 5.5%, the President's Council of Economic Advisers said. While urging a tax increase, Johnson asked that unions and industry "exercise the most rigorous restraint in their wage and price determinations." (More on Page 2)

President Rules Out Bomb Halt

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson Thursday ruled out a halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam until the Communists abandon the tactics of "these last few days."

For him to call off the bombing, the President said, the Communists would have to "not step up his terrorism" and "not accelerate his aggression."

Previously Johnson had said the North Vietnamese had only to agree not to "take advantage of" a bombing halt.

But that was before the Viet Cong started their greatest offensive of the war.

"What would the North Vietnamese be doing if we stopped the bombing and let them alone?" Johnson asked. He answered his own question:

"The enemy forces in the South would be larger. It would be better equipped. The war would be harder. The losses would be greater. The difficulties would be greater. And the one thing you can be sure: It would cost many more American lives."

The President made his remarks at a White House ceremony awarding the Vietnam war's 26th Medal of Honor to Air Force Maj. Merlyn H. Dethlefsen, 33, of Derby, Kan., pilot of a fighter-bomber.

Earlier in the day, Johnson attended a congressional prayer breakfast attended by more than 1,000 national leaders and said the world situation was like the season — bleak and wintery.

"But I can tell you that on these long nights your President prays."

He asked America to pray with him.

He said, "America never stands taller than when her people go to their knees" in prayer.

Johnson Calls For Tighter Reins Over Wages, Prices

Washington (AP) — President Johnson called Thursday for tighter voluntary reins over wages and prices, sought a no-strike pledge in key industries and set up a Cabinet-level committee to oversee the entire price question in 1968.

In his annual economic report to Congress, Johnson avoided even one mention of direct wage and price controls. And he placed the emphasis on controlling inflation in higher taxes and a new style wage-price guidepost.

He called anew for enactment of his proposed 10% tax surcharge "in the next few weeks" and forecast a healthy economy throughout 1968 if Congress and the nation accept "the hard choices before us."

Blames Congress

"Damage has already been done to interest rates, to our trade surplus, and to the level of prices by the failure of Congress to act last fall (on higher taxes)," he said.

"But it is still not too late to avoid far more serious problems if action is taken in the next few weeks," he added.

It was the second strong appeal by Johnson this week for Congress to pass the surcharge which the President in his budget message Monday labeled a war tax for the first time.

No Number

Neither Johnson nor high administration officials placed any numerical value on a wage-price guidepost—it was 3.2% in 1966—and admitted no hope of achieving complete price stability this year.

But officials said wage settlements should be appreciably lower than the 5½% average increase in 1967, although it would be unrealistic to expect labor to hold its demands to a 3% productivity gain when the cost of living rose that much in 1967.

The cabinet committee Johnson set up would discuss policy standards for wage and price decisions with business and labor but wouldn't get involved with labor disputes similar to the current copper negotiations.

The administration's day-to-day infighting to keep wages and prices in check would still be handled by the Council of Economic Advisers.

Opposes Import Curbs

In his economic message, Johnson reviewed the balance of payments program he outlined on New Year's Day, again urged Americans to defer travel outside the Western Hemisphere for two years, opposed import quotas and renewed his pledge to maintain the price of gold at $35 an ounce.

The President's economic report foresaw a $61 billion increase—the biggest ever — in gross national product this year to $846 billion if taxes are raised.

This would represent a 7¾% advance with price increases of more than 3% and real output of more than 4%, up from the 2½% of 1967.

North Feels Offensive Is Aid To Peace Drive

(New York Times Service)

Hanoi (Agence France-Presse) — North Vietnam is waging a peace offensive while the Viet Cong press an extraordinary war offensive. The contradiction is only in appearances.

It is felt here that in a few days, the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, political arm of the Viet Cong, has achieved a position of strength for eventual peace talks—the talks that Hanoi began proposing a month ago.

This advantage is not the only one, observers believe here. The psychological impact of the surprise offensive on the people in the South is likely to prove considerable. Scarcely less important could be the reaction abroad, in the United States in particular.

For the American public, the facts would appear to belie the official optimism that has been current since the gathering of leading United States commanders in Washington two months ago. President Johnson himself, in his State of the Union message, spoke of an improving military situation.

U.S. Still Ahead In Missile Race

Washington (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said Thursday the Russians more than doubled their land-based force of long range missiles in one year, but that the United States still commands an over-all nuclear advantage of 4½ to 1.

In his eighth and final annual report to Congress on the U.S. defense posture worldwide, McNamara also said the Soviet Union and other Communist countries had supplied as much as $1 billion in military and economic aid to North Vietnam last year.

He told the Senate Armed Services Committee that the number of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam may "increase sharply" in the next few months. He described U.S. progress in Vietnam as "uneven" and said the ultimate hope rests on the Saigon government's ability to establish its authority over the country.

McNamara is leaving the Pentagon by the end of the month to become president of the World Bank.

He expressed neither surprise nor concern in reporting that during the 12 months ended Oct. 1, the Soviet Union's land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) had increased from 340 to 720. The United States has 1,054 of these missiles.

He said the buildup probably would continue, but at a slower pace.

The United States, meanwhile, will "slip some months behind" a schedule set last year for replacing some Minuteman I and II ICBMs with the new, multiple warhead Minuteman III, McNamara said. He gave no details of the schedule.

Retained

The delay means that the 54 Titan II ICBMs, which were to have been phased out as the Minuteman III was being installed, will be retained longer than planned.

Also, he said, B52 jet bombers will be kept in service longer than planned because plans to put the new FB111, formerly called the TFX, into service will "slip slightly."

As for the Soviet ICBM buildup, McNamara said the United States still has an edge of 4,500 to 1,000 over the Russians in total numbers of nuclear bombs and warheads.

McNamara disclosed that a "majority" in the U.S. intelligence community now believes that the so-called Tallinn defense the Russians are deploying along their northwest borders is not an antimissile but an antibomber system.

It was the Tallinn system which the Joint Chiefs of Staff have cited as evidence of the need for a full-scale U.S. antiballistic missile (ABM) system, which McNamara has rejected.

As for the Chinese, McNamara predicted Peking could deploy its first medium-range ballistic missiles as a threat to its Asian neighbors this year and could have a modest force of them operational by the mid-1970s.

Five Hostages Freed Unhurt; Fugitives Flee

Denver, Colo. (AP) — Five hostages were taken and released unharmed Thursday during a getaway attempt that led two well-dressed but bungling gunmen—believed to be fugitives from Fort Worth, Tex.—over 250 miles of Colorado mountain highways from the ski resort town of Vail into Denver.

Denver police set up roadblocks on major highways out of the city after the last of the five hostages — which included the Vail police chief —were released here about midafternoon.

About two hours after the last two hostages were freed, the two men still had eluded the dragnet and were believed headed south for Colorado Springs.

After viewing descriptions of the bandits, police in Fort Worth Tex., said they believe the two gunmen are Charles Edward Hardin, 26, and Earl Wayne Sanders, 22, wanted in Tarrant County, Tex., on charges of assault to murder, murder and armed robbery.

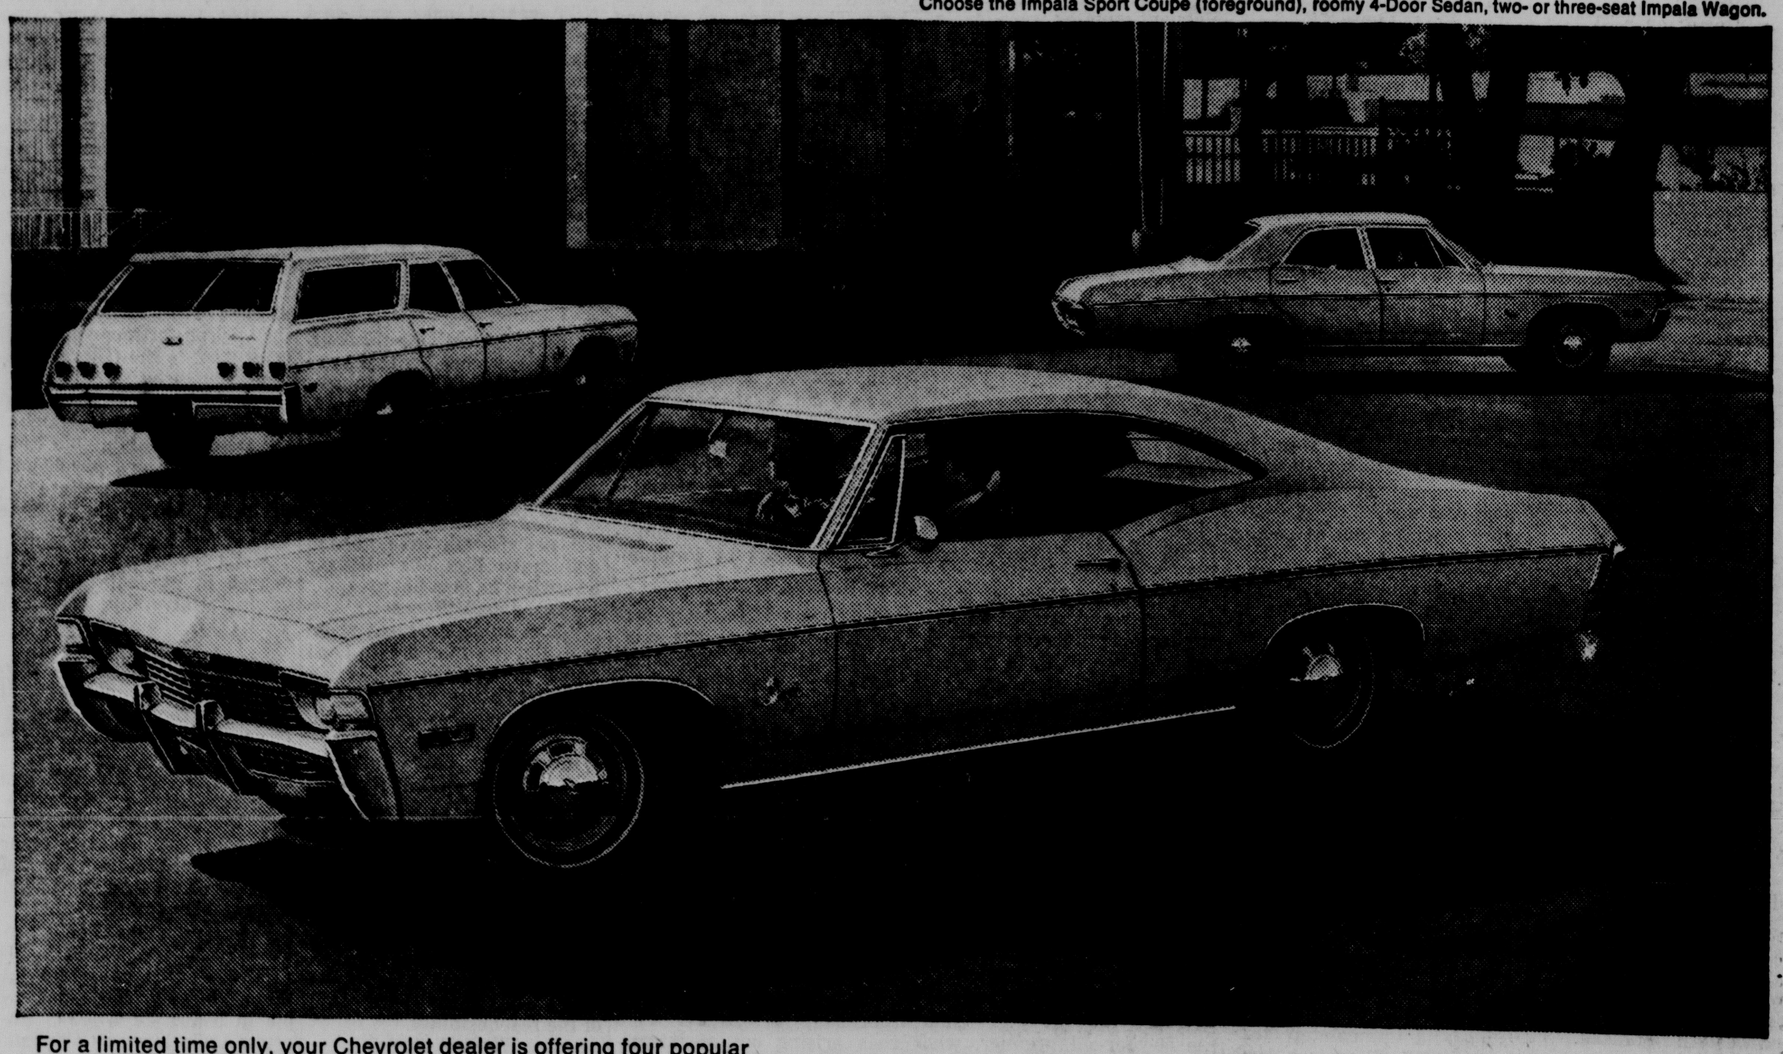

Officers said a third man, Theo Ray Thames, 20, is wanted on the same charges and is believed to be in Colorado with the other two.

The sequence of events was strikingly similar to a fouled-up supermarket robbery in Denver, Monday, the seizure of seven hostages in an escape attempt and finally the capture of the bandit after a 300-mile chase over the eastern Colorado plains.

Drive For Partisan Legislature Starts

Hagemeister Files Affidavit, Petition Form

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

An initiative petition effort to return the Nebraska Legislature to partisan membership was launched Thursday with the filing of a petition form an affidavit.

Bruce Hagemeister of Hemmingford, chairman of the Committee for Partisan Legislation, said the petition drive for 60,000 signatures would begin March 1.

The petition calls for a constitutional amendment on the November ballot providing for the nomination and election of legislators in a partisan manner beginning in 1970.

The drive must gain 48,640 valid signatures by July 5 and equal 10% of the gubernatorial vote in 1966 and 5% of the vote in at least 38 counties.

Backed By GOP

Hagemeister said the committee is backed by the Republican State Central Committee, but it is hoped Democratic workers will aid in the petition effort in all 93 counties.

"After almost 30 years of trial of non-partisan legislation," he said, "the record shows that it has not lived up to expectation."

He emphasized the petition effort "is to return to two-party government and is not aimed at repeal of the one-house Legislature."

"Legislative committees made under a two-party system cannot be carried out with a non-partisan Legislature," he said. "It is significant that our non-partisan system has been examined by most of our sister states and adopted by none."

Proud For Change

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, a committee member, said Nebraska today has a "forty-nine party system" in that there are "49 senators (in the Unicameral) with 49 separate platforms."

"A return to the two-party system will enable the people of Nebraska to have a much greater voice in their government," he added.

If the constitutional amendment for a partisan Legislature gains voter approval in November, the committee said 25 of the 49 members would be elected by party designation in the 1970 election.

The remaining 24 would run on a party basis in 1972 when their four-year terms expire.

Members of the committee are the Nebraska Republican State Central Committee, GOP National Committeeman Donald R. Ross of Omaha, GOP National Committeewoman Mrs. Anne Batchelder of Omaha, State Republican Chairman Mrs. Lorraine Orr of North Platte, Merrill Andersen of Beatrice, Mrs. Adelaide Stubblefield of Shelton, Glen A. Fiebig and Mrs. Lila Lee Fiebig of Alliance and Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper in addition to Hagemeister and Proud. Rasmussen is the only Democrat on the committee.

Omaha's Duchesne College Closing

Omaha (AP) — Duchesne College, a girl's school chartered as a four year college in 1915, will close its doors Aug. 15, Sister Jeannette Kimball, president, announced Thursday.

The college has an enrollment of 336 girls.

Sister Kimball said decreased enrollment and increased operating costs were the reasons for the decision to give up the college. Duchesne Academy, founded in 1881, will continue as a high school, she said.

Duchesne students will be able to transfer to Creighton University or to the College of St. Mary, Omaha's two other Catholic colleges, if they choose to remain in Omaha.

Duchesne is operated by the Society of the Sacred Heart, which has six other colleges in the United States, including Barat College in Lake Forest, Ill., and Marysville College at St. Louis, both within 500 miles of Omaha.

Beckham's Appearance Set Feb. 15

... Before Grand Jury

New Orleans (AP) — An evangelist-cowboy singer sought by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison as a material witness in his Kennedy assassination probe appeared in criminal District Court here Thursday and won a delay of his grand jury appearance until Feb. 15.

Nebraska News

Thomas Edward Beckham, 27, of Omaha, Neb., asked that his appearance be put off until he has a chance to confer with his local attorney, Edward H. Booker.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James Alcook agreed to the request, and Judge Matthew Braniff told Beckham to appear before the jury at 9 a.m. Feb. 15 "without further notice."

Beckham was ordered by a court in Omaha to return as a witness at Garrison's request.

Garrison claims President Kennedy was not killed by a lone assassin as the Warren Commission concludes, but that the President's death was the result of a conspiracy.

Hike Asked In Pollution Fund Grants

Washington (UPI)—A 10% increase in funds available in the form of grants to assist in construction of sewage treatment facilities to eliminate river pollution was requested in President Johnson's 1969 fiscal year budget.

Included was a request for a $170,800 hike for Nebraska. The present allocation is $2,067,900 and would be hiked to $2,238,700.

The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, a division of the Interior Department, has proposed to spend $225 million overall during the year commencing next July 1. The amount represents a $22 million increase over the present year.

The administration noted the discharge of raw sewage into the nation's streams was gradually decreasing and the grants made available to communities through its program was helping to reduce the amount even further.

Under the program an allocation of funds is set aside for each state and its communities can apply for financial help after adopting plans for construction of new or improvement of existing facilities.

Maj. Dethlefsen, Omaha U. Grad, Given Medal Of Honor

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson Thursday presented the Medal of Honor to Maj. Merlyn H. Dethlefsen, 33, an Air Force pilot from Greenville, Iowa.

The former Omaha University bootstrapper was cited for braving Communist flak to clear the way for other planes to knock out a key steel mill complex.

Dethlefsen, now an instructor at Vance Air Force Base, Okla., was one of four fliers assigned March 10 to destroy antiaircraft guns and missiles protecting the Thai Nguyen steel mill 50 miles north of Hanoi.

Johnson said Dethlefsen and his Air Force colleagues have "rewritten the rule book . . . of area warfare. Each day they are pinning down from 500,000 to 750,000 North Vietnamese and they are only a few hundred in number."

Despite intense enemy fire that downed one plane and crippled another, Dethlefsen got through to knock out the missile site and clear the way for bombers to destroy the North Vietnamese plant.

Marsh Declines Comment On Possible Amendment Conflict

Secretary of State Frank Marsh Thursday declined comment on the possible conflict between a proposed constitutional amendment for a partisan Legislature and one increasing senatorial salaries from $200 to $400 a month.

Both amendments seek to modify the language of Article III, Section 7 of the Nebraska Constitution.

If both amendments carry, the one with the most votes would be considered the one enacted by the people in the event of a constitutional question, observers said.

Some Statehouse sources indicate the constitutional amendment for electing state senators by party labels may also keep their salaries at $200 a month.

Marsh declined to comment on any legal question, but noted sponsors of the initiative petition for a partisan Legislature have sufficient time to file an amended petition form.

Notes Few Errors'

Marsh noted there were a "few typographical errors" in the sample petition filed earlier in the day by the Committee for Partisan Legislation.

But, he added, "it's not our job" to point them out or comment on any possible legal questions.

Marvel Indicates He'll Seek Post If Employment Details Worked Out

Hastings (UPI)—State Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings indicated Thursday he will file for re-election to the Legislature if he can work out details for future employment as a college professor.

Marvel's present four-year unicameral term expires this year. He has served in the Legislature for 14 years and has headed the powerful budget committee for eight years.

The problem over his employment stems from the fact the University of Omaha where he is now a political science professor becomes a branch of the University of Nebraska July 1.

A 1952 state attorney general's opinion held employment of a state senator by NU in a teaching capacity constitutes an illegal contract under conflict of interest laws.

Marvel, 50, has been looking into the possibility of teaching at a private college, including Hastings College, while the Legislature is not in regular session. He also is investigating the possibility of taking a leave of absence from his duties at Omaha University while serving in the Legislature.

Marvel has a doctorate degree from NU in political science. He has handled a limited class load at Omaha University in past sessions of the Legislature.

Marvel said he would like to serve in the 1969 session of the Legislature because he believes it will be one of the most important meetings in the state's history.

"The prime issue will be spending," he said. "The Legislature must keep a firm hand on control of the purse strings."

Summary of Conditions

A small storm center is located over the southwestern Great Lakes with a cold front southwest through Illinois, central Missouri, northwest Arkansas, southeast Oklahoma and eastern Texas. A large mass of cold air covers eastern Canada with a weak ridge extending southwards across Minnesota, Nebraska and western Kansas. Some colder air is being spun southwards around the western side of the Lakes low.

A retarding factor is the small low over southern Saskatchewan which with its counterclockwise circulation is helping to hold the cold air north. A large Great Basin high is centered over northern Utah, which will help to hold the storm centers north of us and moving east across the northern tier of states or through southern Canada. Gulf moisture was shunted east ahead of the cold front.

Skies will be partly cloudy Friday, becoming fair Friday night and Saturday. Temperautres will be a little warmer Friday and Friday night with little change expected Sautrday. No precipitation is expected.

GOLD'S

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Things have happened in such rapid-fire order this week that an editorial writer could hardly feel anything but harassed. To name a few, petition drives failed against two local projects, the Lincoln Job Corps was ordered closed, a petition form was filed with the state for a return to a partisan legislature and a Lincoln housewife was fatally shot.

And finally, a three-judge federal court panel has ruled that Nebraska's new congressional apportionment law is constitutional. The basic conclusion from this ruling is that the apportionment battle is now concluded.

This assumption, however, could be upset as there are still unanswered legal questions that could be propounded in the courts. But any political party continuation of the controversy would seem, at this point, fruitless and ill advised.

★

All that could be done now is a muddying of the waters since the basic legal principle of one-man, one-vote has been assured in the general election. This is the point of equity sought by the Democratic challenge to the apportionment programs of the past.

But despite the constitutionality of our new congressional districts, we are left with a peculiar and not altogether clear picture. This stems from the fact that the new districts are not effective for the primary election.

This fact exists because, first of all, the Legislature failed to establish the new districts with emergency enactment of the apportionment law. Thus, the districts are not legally formed by legislative act in time for the March 15 deadline for filing for nomination in the May 14 primary.

Secondly, the court declined to assume the responsibility for making the new districts applicable in time for this filing deadline.

The court's position can be understood and appreciated but the situation still reflects badly upon the Legislature. The Legislature could easily have avoided all this legal mumbo-jumbo simply by assuming its full responsibility and passing the new apportionment law with the emergency clause, thus providing us with legal districts before the filing deadline.

The legal vaccum left here, as we stated, is not apt to be pursued by either political party. But, the vacuum could be exploited by office-seekers for their own selfish interests. It is hoped, of course, that this does not come to pass.

There are two saving features in the situation. One, the new districts will be effective by primary election time, thus giving voters a choice of candidates from which to choose.

Secondly, formal district lines may not be essential for filing purposes since a candidate for office need not file for nomination in the district in which he resides. Putting it another way, a person may file for nomination in any district, regardless of where he lives.

We are not so sure why, but the court indicated and other legal authorities seem to believe that, for these reasons, filings for the various districts can be accepted by the state and a legal nomination of one candidate from each party can be accomplished in the primary.

This logic, if that is what it is, would seem to rule out the possibility of parties selecting their nominees for the general election. Parties may nominate only when there is a vacancy on the ballot and the above reasoning would have us believe there would be no vacancy.

Such will undoubtedly be the procedure followed by election officials, unless or until further developments indicate an action to the contrary.

It is unfortunate that the Legislature acted without cause to leave the state in such a complicated and uncertain position. It is a relief, however, that the issue has now been settled to the extent it has and, with luck, no further problems will develop.

Uneasy Time In Asia

U.S. intelligence personnel must be working these days on an around-the-clock basis. They would have to in order to ascertain what is happening in Asia and particularly in Vietnam. Certainly, the communists have stepped up the tempo of the fighting in Vietnam and even in Korea.

While a major offense just south of the demilitarized zone in Vietnam is expected on the part of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, the situation elsewhere in the country is far from encouraging.

The VC have attacked cities from north to south, including Saigon itself, which was considered impregnable. Not only that, but parts of Saigon have been lost to the enemy for short periods of time and parts of other cities once strongly held by the South are in the hands of the VC or North Vietnamese.

These efforts in the cities have been surprisingly successful considering they are billed by the U.S. as diversionary tactics to facilitate the major offensive along the demilitarized zone.

It is unknown whether the increased military effort from the North is aimed at a victory in a war or at a position of strength from which to negotiate for peace. Either way, it has all the marks of a crucial stage in developments in Asia, coupled as it is with such things as the recent North Korean seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo.

And once again, the communists have demonstrated their inhumanity with the widespread practice of terrorism and brutality.

Lincoln Racially Prejudiced?

An article in Ebony magazine by senior editor Lerone Bennett Jr. asserts that Abraham Lincoln was not the great emancipator but rather a "tragically flawed figure who shared the racial prejudices of most of his contemporaries." Lincoln "was a firm believer in white supremacy . . . and he believed until his death that black and white people would be much better off separated," the article states.

It is true that Lincoln believed these things. But so what? Nothing can obscure the fact that Lincoln held the Union together. And he did sign the Emancipation Proclamation, even though Bennett claims he later called it a mistake.

To condemn Lincoln for holding thoughts similar to his contemporaries is childish. To insist that we cling to the Lincoln myth because of "the psychological needs of a racist society" is to unnecessarily still ill will between black and white.

One would criticize the framers of the U.S. Constitution because they drew up the document behind closed doors. You could damn the framers, too, for their suspicion of democracy; to wit, when Elbridge Gerry said that "the evils we experience flow from the excesses of democracy" no one at the Constitutional Convention disagreed. Were the framers evil men because they met in secret and equated property with liberty and happiness?

Of course not. The worst that can be said of them is that they were men of their own time. And this is what criticism of Abraham Lincoln amounts to. He lived in the 19th Century, not the 20th. He can't be condemned for holding 19th-Century views.

Better that blacks and whites, Northerners and Southerners recall Lincoln's inaugural address: "We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained it, it must not break our bones of affection."

TOM WICKER

Man Behind The Budget

WASHINGTON — It is apparent that the man who had the most to do with shaping the budget President Johnson has sent to Congress was not the President but Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, who represents only about a half-million people in Arkansas and who has no constitutional or statutory responsibility for the federal budget.

Since last August, when Johnson sent to Congress a proposal to add a 10 per cent surcharge to the income tax, Mills has consistently refused to clear the surcharge through his committee unless the administration makes monumental cuts in federal spending. The tax increase is so important to the President that, in an effort to appease Mills, Johnson produced a budget for fiscal 1969 that will permit only a $300 million rise in expenditures beyond $10.1 billion in defense increases and some other increases required by law.

Yet, when the budget had been put through this ghastly butchery — a contributing factor, by the way, in the departure of the respected John W. Gardner from the cabinet — Mills was not satisfied.

"Look at this thing again," he said in his school-masterly manner to the secretary of the treasury, the budget director and, in effect, to the President of the United States, "and see if you've done the best you can."

What is most fascinating about this spectacle, which would be impossible in almost any other government, is not so much whether the tax surcharge is really needed, or even whether Mills is less opposed to it than to the social expenditures whose sacrifice he now has forced. The interesting thing is how he has been able to stymie the combined advocacy of the administration, the federal reserve, most of the business community, and a sizable proportion of the academic economists.

"Single-handed" is almost the right word for this performance. Mills' control of the Ways and Means Committee is exceptionally tight. Nominally, he has a 15 to 10 Democratic majority. On many issues, however, he can put together a second majority consisting of the 10 Republicans, two conservative Democrats — Herlong of Florida and Watts of Kentucky — and Wilbur Mills.

Mills has immense power to approve so-called "member bills" and to put in or take out the fine print in major revenue bills; the resulting exceptions, exemptions, definitions, inclusions and interpretations — better known as tax loopholes — are seldom visible to the public but are eagerly sought by members of the committee and of the House.

It would be most difficult, therefore, for anyone to make a successful revolt against Mills in the Ways and Means Committee. If someone did, and brought a tax bill to the floor without his approval, it would face not only his opposition but that of the hierarchy of committee chairmen and leaders who would see their own prerogatives and authority threatened.

Mills' reputation for following rather than leading opinion in the House is also a factor. For instance, when medical care for the aged, as part of the Social Security system, was a major issue, Mills blocked it year after year, as long as he believed it could not pass the House; when the liberal Democratic 89th Congress took office after the Johnson landslide of 1967, Mills made haste to bring the Medicare bill to the floor, and took much credit for its passage.

In the case of the tax surcharge, Mills probably created opinion by following it. This is an obviously controversial proposition with a war on and an election impending, so when Mills proclaimed last August that the surcharge could not pass the House because of popular opposition, he may well have been right.

But one effect of such opposition from a man with his reputation for caution was to create more opposition among some who respected his political judgment. Another was to build a political shelter for those who did not wish to have to face a vote on the tax increase or to choose up sides publicly, for or against President Johnson. They could hide behind Wilbur Mills, and they did, and they are still doing it.

The likelihood is that Mills is having his cake and eating it too — no tax increase as well as a hefty budget cut. If the administration now cuts the budget even further, it will be interesting to see if he really tries to get the surcharge through against opposition he has done so much to mobilize.

Serious Situation

Holdrege, Neb.

Contrary to the opinions expressed in your editorial of January 27, I do not think any solution to the problems of the Kearney Boys Training School can preclude the possibility of some major administrative changes.

It is disturbing when people at the upper levels of government will not face up to the sometimes unpleasant responsibilities that go with their positions and even more disturbing when they cannot admit their mistakes instead of castigating sincere people trying to bring an intolerable situation to the attention of the people.

Can any reason be suggested why two young clergymen with nothing to gain personally and obviously much to lose would lay their heads on the block if they were not convinced of the seriousness of the situation? This situation must be resolved in the most straight-forward manner possible. The integrity and the very future of two young men may be at stake and even graver, who can tell how many lives may be influenced by the continued shortcomings that obviously exist there, whatever their origin.

The Problem

Lincoln, Neb.

The living conditions at the Kearney Boys School and Whitehall, as outlined in news reports of the Institutions Advisory Committee hearing held at Kearney last week, read like something out of Auschwitz and Dachau.

Governor Tiemann's reaction has been utter inaction if not embarrassed silence. As for institutions director, Mr. Sigler, he has shown an unwillingness to admit any wrongs in his administration and what is more disturbing, he seems unable to bring about any reform in these institutions.

So, let's try to replace Mr. Sigler with anyone who will clean up this extremely disturbing problem. This situation is a smear on the governor's administration and voters do remember.

Child Brutality

Lincoln, Neb.

Why are people charged with just child neglect, but change that child into a full-grown adult and the charge would become attempted murder or attempt to cause great bodily harm?

Today over 10,000 children are maltreated each year and many die. Yet the parents get away with just a slap on the hand. In World War II, the Germans and Japanese could not even think of some of the tortures these children, ranging in age from a couple of months to 16 years, have to go through.

There is nothing that can make ordinary and happy families realize what a serious problem child brutality is because they know what it is to be loved and to love others. If only they could see the children lying in the hospitals, even in our city. The doctors know that if these children survive, they will never live a normal life because of the emotional, mental and physical effects left on them. Even in our city, some six-month-old children have already been admitted to hospitals three times.

The only solution to child brutality is for us, the people, to become involved and demand strict sentences for these parents, whether it be in prison or a mental institition. Child brutality should make the citizens of the United States ashamed.

Heads In The Sand

Beatrice, Neb.

May I commend you on an excellent, crisp editorial, "Exercise in Futility," in the Jan. 31 Star. Critics of our Vietnam and Southeast Asia policy should take note and read it carefully. Perhaps if the critics were more willing to face reality, they wouldn't resemble a flock of ostriches. They're against the war in Vietnam. Aren't we all? But what do they suggest we do—pull a French special? I would urge them to read the editorial carefully.

Secondly, why do innocent victims of North Vietnam get all the sympathy? What about the South Vietnamese who have been putting up with atrocities for practically 15 years?

Age-Old Problem Of Good Manners

NEW YORK — The little lady who runs a coffee shop next to our office told a shocking story this week:

Moments after she had wedged her way into a crowded subway, a gentleman had arisen and offered her his seat.

"It was the first time this has happened to me in the last 15 years," she observed.

"It made me realize I must look very old."

Such a psychological tragedy can happen to any woman in New York City. But not often.

☆ ☆ ☆

Speaking of distressing courtesies, the lady went on, she has noticed a new trend in etiquette in the buses and subways.

Women of middle-age are getting up to let mothers holding onto small fry have a seat. But instead of the mothers taking the vacated seat, they let their children sit, while they themselves continue to joggle along, grasping a strap and wrestling with packages.

"How," she inquires aptly, "are children ever to learn manners when their own mothers urge them to grab the first available seat? If a child can't stand up in deference to his own parent — will he ever defer to anyone else?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Of course, to American children, the idea of politeness too often is associated with weakness. Even today's parents seem to equate manners with something short of manliness.

It reminds me again of the story of a young boy of 15, who wrote a book of etiquette.

It was in the year 1747, when America was not renowned for its spit and polish. The boy thought perhaps he could help.

He wrote down such rather necessary rulings, in those days, as: "Cleanse not your teeth with the table cloth or knife." And "Kill no fleas or lice in the sight of others."

It is not known whether this youngster was reviled by the rougher necks in his neighborhood for being a weakling when he wrote, and offered for publication, his "Rules of Civility." But if he was, those children must later have felt as sheepish as today's youngsters might feel if they were asked to doff their caps to ladies.

Because the boy who wrote the etiquette book was a pretty big wheel when he grew up.

Name was George Washington.

Public Sentiment Contrary To Eartha Kitt; Surprise Element Is Biggest War Threat

WASHINGTON — Washington is still talking about Eartha Kitt, the Negro nightclub entertainer who heckled Mrs. Johnson at a White House luncheon on crime. On the same day the story broke, the United States and Soviet Russia signed a nuclear proliferation pact which may affect the lives of millions. However, the headlines on how Eartha Kitt told off the First Lady aroused more interest than the vital Soviet-American move for peace.

The burden of Eartha's impassioned confrontation with the First Lady was that there was rebellion in the streets and pot smoking by the hippies because of the war in Vietnam. She talked as a dedicated peacenik.

What Mrs. Johnson and her guests didn't know, however, was that at 9:45 that morning, Eartha had called on Col. Roland Beasley at the Pentagon and arranged to go to Vietnam herself to entertain the troops. She was not exactly a peacenik. She had even testified on Capitol Hill before Rep. Roman Pucinsky, D-Ill., that not enough Negroes were going to Vietnam.

Another fact generally overlooked was that no first lady since Mrs. Roosevelt has done more to focus attention on slum conditions than Lady Bird. Jackie Kennedy, after being invited repeatedly to visit Junior Village, the neglected D.C. government orphanage, finally did so only during her last few months in the White House. Mrs. Johnson has been there repeatedly, has toured impoverished Appalachia, the basement slums of Newark, N.J., the ghettos of New York, and the rural poverty area of Lick Branch, Kentucky. While she could not match Eartha Kitt's statement, "I have lived in the gutters," she has visited the gutters repeatedly.

This was one reason why, out of 5,000 letters received at the White House following the Eartha Kitt incident, 99 per cent were favorable to Mrs. Johnson.

NOTE: One letter, written not to the White House but to the Washington Post, came from Mrs. Agnes Meyer, widow of the Post's late publisher, Eugene Meyer. Mrs. Meyer, a pioneer social worker and a traditional dissenter, once gave $5,000 to Adlai Stevenson when her husband gave $5,000 to Dwight G. Eisenhower. This time she wrote a letter to the Post construed as differing from the Post's editorial on Eartha Kitt the day before.

The Post had defended Eartha's "feelings" as from an overflowing heart. Mrs. Meyer called them a "sudden unmannerly attack" and paid tribute to Mrs. Johnson as a "great lady."

Mrs. Meyer's daughter, Publisher Katharine Graham, a protector of dissent, promptly published her mother's letter.

Both the United States and Russia have an important principle at stake in the Pueblo spy ship incident. They have tacitly recognized that the more they know about each other's operations, the better the chance for preventing war.

The element of surprise frequently contributes to war. When nations don't know what others are doing, they panic. This is especially true in these days of nuclear missiles when the nation which gets a 15-minute start may knock out the enemy's cities and win.

This is why the United States was careful to use the hot line to Moscow to explain the take-off of U.S. planes from the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean after the USS Liberty was attacked off the coast of Egypt last June. We didn't want the Russians thinking this was a surprise attack on their fleet.

This is also why the Air Force was careful to broadcast uncoded messages that planes would fly over the Bering Sea to drop food packages to starving Eskimos on the islands adjacent to the Siberian Islands. Otherwise the Russians might have suspected an attack.

This is also why the United States has not picked up Soviet spy ships even when they have occasionally strayed inside U.S. territorial waters. We have monitored almost everything the Russians have done, and have no objection to their monitoring our movements. It eliminates surprise. And mistakes caused by surprise constitute the chief risk of war in this nuclear age.

Khrushchev was very frank about his spying on the United States. When in Cairo in 1964 he told us:

"President Johnson has been taking pictures of our military bases from his satellites for two years. And we have been taking pictures of your bases from our satellites.

"I should be delighted to sit down with the President and compare photos to see which are the best."

Fraser Appointed To State Air Unit

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann announced Thursday the appointment of William A. Fraser Jr. of Omaha to replace Robert D. Marcotte of Omaha on the State Aeronautics Commission.

Marcotte submitted his resignation earlier this week to the governor's office while Tiemann was on a trip to the East Coast.

The announcement of Fraser's appointment was the first official confirmation from the governor's office of Marcotte's resignation.

Marcotte cited business pressures as his reason for resigning.

The governor's office said Fraser, chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Bellevue, once built an operated an airport in the Omaha area.

Marcotte was appointed to the commission last March by Tiemann. Fraser was named for the unexpired term running to March 1, 1972.

Tiemann Praises Court's Reapportionment Decision

Gov. Norbert Tiemann Thursday called the three-judge federal district court panel's decision to uphold the congressional reapportionment bill passed in the special session of the Legislature "a good opinion."

Tiemann, back from Philadelphia and Washington, said the "problem is solved, The one-man, one-vote principle has been upheld."

However, he said "it would have been beneficial" if the court had "made more clear" the filing methods.

The opinion held that there is nothing in the U.S. Constitution restricting a candidate from running for a congressional seat when he resides outside of the district he hopes to represent.

Tiemann said the problems may be worked out with "experience."

Terry May Run For House Seat From Omaha District

Scottsbluff (UPI) — State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said Thursday he may run for Congress in Omaha this year to determine if candidates for the U.S. House can run in any congressional district they please.

Carpenter commented after a federal court ruling held the state's new congressional redistricting law is valid and said a candidate for Congress does not have to live in the district he seeks to represent.

The secretary of state's office said it will accept filings from candidates who want to run for Congress in a district they do not reside in.

Allen J. Beermann, deputy secretary of state, said the only requirements the state will insist on are that candidates live in Nebraska, be citizens of the United States for seven years or more, be at least 25 years old and pay the $300 filing fee.

Carpenter said the only way to settle the residency question "is for someone, like myself, to file in a district he doesn't live in and let someone else challenge the action in court."

The senator added: "I am considering bringing this matter to a head by filing in the Omaha district. Everyone calls me the 13th member of the Douglas County delegation anyway so I might just as well test my support there."

Custer County Files Petition For Inclusion Election

Custer County was added to the list of counties filing petitions for a November vote for inclusion in their respective educational service unit, the secretary of state's office reported Thursday.

Dawes, Garfield, Sheridan and Thayer Counties also filed petitions seeking an inclusion vote. Two others — Cherry and Garden — had filed sample petitions, but did not submit any petitions with signatures.

The filed petitions will now be checked for validity by the secretary of state's staff.

Thirty-one counties submitted petitions seeking exclusion votes before filing deadline Wednesday.

YOUR INCOME TAX:

New Benefits Told On Medical Costs

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

Washington (AP)—You could get an extra break on medical costs if you itemize deductions this year.

Listing your deductions—rather than using one of the standard methods—takes a good deal more time but it could save you money, especially if you made monthly payments on a mortgage and paid real estate taxes.

Interest on your mortgage and real estate taxes you pay are both legitimate deductions. But you should have records to back them up.

It's in the medical field, however, where the new benefit comes into play this year.

Last of a Series

It will permit a medical deduction for anyone who itemizes and has paid medical insurance premiums.

You can now deduct for 1967—but only if you itemize—one-half the amount up to $150 you paid for medical insurance during the year without regard to the usual limits on medical and dental expenses.

Medical Deduction

This will help taxpayers who ordinarily would not qualify for a medical deduction.

Normally you can deduct only those medical and dental expenses which exceed three per cent of your total income.

But if you paid $140, for example, in medical insurance premiums during 1967 you can deduct $70 of his automatically and the remaining $70 can be included among the medical and dental expenses subject to the three per cent floor.

If you are unable to deduct anything because of this floor, you can still take the deduction for half the health insurance premiums.

Those medicine and drug costs exceeding one per cent of total income can also be used to make up the amount subject to the three per cent floor.

But remember you can deduct only those medical and dental costs which you pay yourself. Expenses for which you were reimbursed through insurance are not deductible.

For 1966 taxes, persons 65 and over could disregard the one per cent and three per cent floors on medical deductions but they are now subject to it anew for the tax returns which must be filed by April 15.

Must Have Evidence

If you itemize deductions you must have evidence such as a canceled check or a receipt that you actually spent the money. The Internal Revenue Service can request this proof.

Don't itemize your deductions if you get a better break by using one of the two standard deductions—the 10% or the minimum standard.

If your deductions are complex, it might be worth the 50 cents to buy the 169-page IRS publication "Your Federal Income Tax."

The instruction sheets sent to you by IRS include tables on sales and gasoline taxes to help you figure these deductions.

If you plan to itemize it's a good idea to get an early start on your tax return. IRS Commissioner Sheldon S. Cohen says the worst job isn't filling out the tax form but getting your spending records together.

Saves Headaches

An early start can save a lot of headaches later.

If you have a question about a particular deduction, a call to your nearest IRS office will help clear up any misunderstanding.

Now for some specifics.

Medical insurance premiums paid by your employer cannot be deducted by you.

In addition to payments to doctors, dentists, nurses and other professional medical people, you can also deduct the cost of getting to the doctor or hospital, such as a taxi ride.

You can also deduct hospital costs paid by you, laboratory and surgical fees, false teeth, eye glasses, hearing aids, crutches, the cost of a seeing eye dog and the dog's maintenance, X-ray examinations and therapy treatments.

A seeing eye dog is a medical expense and not a business expense even if you use the dog in conducting a business.

Trip to Florida

Don't try deducting a trip to Florida even if your doctor says it would be healthy. The courts have ruled against this as a deduction.

A deduction might be permitted for a trip to treat a special condition but this would cover only the cost of transportation, not your living expenses. It would be best to check any circumstances with IRS.

In addition to medical expenses, interest on a mortgage and real estate taxes, you can deduct such items as state and local income taxes, personal property taxes state and local gasoline taxes, general sales taxes, interest on a loan and contributions to churches, united funds, veterans organizations, many colleges and universities, nonprofit hospitals, Boy Scouts and some types of education expenses.

Money spent to send a son or daughter to college cannot be deducted for tax purposes. Neither can the cost of sending a child to a private or parochial school.

But a teacher, for example, can deduct the cost of courses to maintain or improve her skills but not to qualify for a new trade or business. Check the instructions closely here to make certain you qualify.

Union Dues

Under miscellaneous deductions you can list union dues or dues to a professional society, fees to employment agencies to obtain a job and the cost of safety equipment, tools and supplies used in your job.

Losses on your home, clothing or automobile from fire are also deductible as is lightning and storm damage — unless they are covered by insurance. Only that part of a nonbusiness loss over $100 from any one casualty or theft is deductible.

If you worked for more than one employer during the year you may be entitled to a credit for social security taxes if you paid more than $290.40. You can claim the excess as a credit on line 18, page 1, of the long form 1040. This is not a deduction but a reduction of your final tax.

Remember, auto license fees are generally no longer deductible. They were several years ago but the law was changed.

Among other expenses which cannot be deducted are political contributions, gifts to labor unions or chambers of commerce, hunting and dog licenses, water taxes, taxes on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages, sales taxes on admissions or room occupancy and other selective sales or excise taxes, travel to and from work and bribes.

You also cannot deduct federal income taxes or social security taxes.

When you've finished, make sure youve signed the return and included your Social Security number. If it's a joint return make certain your wife has signed and listed her number.

Start preparing your return early; recheck your arithmetic and read the instructions before you begin.

Reapportionment Act Constitutional

. . . PANEL OF JUDGES RULES

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's new congressional apportionment act was given a constitutional green light Thursday by a panel of three federal judges.

Although the new law will not become effective until April 12, nearly a month after the March 15 filing deadline, Secretary of State Frank Marsh will recognize the new districts in accepting filings for the May 14 primary election.

Marsh said he is acting upon the advice of Attorney General Clarence Meyer, who said the secretary of state may legally recognize the new districts since they will be effective by the time of the primary election.

Will Not Appeal

Meanwhile, Democratic State Vice Chairman J. J. Exon said he will not appeal the federal court decision, nor will he challenge Meyer's opinion in the courts.

The Lincoln businessman said he is "happy" that his lawsuit resulted in reducing the population disparity among Nebraska's three congressional districts from 17% to 3.53%, based on 1966 population estimates.

"Thank God for the courts," Exon said. "I think this court has done an outstanding job."

The three-judge federal panel simply declared the new apportionment law to be a valid enactment, but declined to take any action to give it immediate effect.

"We do not care to designate as a 'court bill' a bill which we did not draft," the judges declared in an 11-page memorandum outlining their decision.

Not Required

The court noted that congressmen are not required to live in the districts which they represent, and thus any qualified person may file in any of three districts as a congressional primary candidate whether the new act is in effect or not.

(If Marsh had refused to accept filings — based on the argument that the state has no congressional districts yet and recognized the fact that congressional candidates may not run at-large — there could have been no primary elections for seats in the U.S. House of Representatives.

(Under state law, the governing state central committees of each political party would then have chosen the congressional nominees to fill the vacancies on the general election ballot.)

Moves 3 Counties

The new redistricting law moves only three counties from the alignment ordered by the 1961 Legislature in its reapportionment act. That act was voided by the federal court when Exon challenged it on constitutional grounds.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann subsequently summoned the Legislature into special session last January to attempt to enact a valid replacement law. Exon promptly challenged the new act, arguing that lawmakers could have created more equitable districts.

To reduce disparity, the Legislature transferred Polk and Platte Counties from the First to the Third District, and Burt County from the First to the Second.

Using 1966 population estimates of the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research, population of the new districts totaled 512,446 in the First, 494,768 in the Second, and 508,830 in the Third.

Substantial Equality

The result meets constitutional requirements of substantial equality of population and upholds the U.S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" principle, the federal judges said.

". . . Mathematical precision can seldom, if ever, be achieved," the judges noted, and "complete mechanical exactness is unrealistic."

Stated the jurists:

"We believe that all that is required under the teachings of the U.S. Supreme Court cases dealing with congressional redistricting is that the variances be slight and justifiable.

"If the variances are slight, that in itself may be a justification for any plan that has not been reached by improper motive."

In its earlier decision voiding the 1961 law, the court gave the Legislature tacit approval to utilize 1966 NU estimates, rather than 1960 federal census figures.

1966 Estimates

Some senators used 1967 population projections prepared by the Legislative Council's research staff to illustrate a further reduction in disparity since 1966, but the attorney general's office — in defending the act — used the 1966 estimates.

"Whether the Legislature relied upon the 1967 projection or upon the 1966 NU figures is immaterial since we conclude that the districts . . . fall within the standards approved by the Supreme Court of the United States," the judges said.

Members of the panel were U.S. Circuit Judge Donald Lay, and U.S. District Judges Robert Van Pelt and Richard Robinson.

Exon said that while he is happy to "bow to the superior wisdom and sincerity of the court" in accepting the new law, the fact that it will not be in effect prior to the primary election filing deadline is "mute evidence" that the Legislature and the governor "failed to do their job."

Had the reapportionment act received 33 votes with the emergency clause attached, "the matter would be closed as of today," Exon said. Instead, the issue remains "slightly clouded," he noted.

The act, LB1, was approved on a 34-14 vote after gaining only 31 votes as an emergency measure.

New Health Dept. Head Faces Space Problem

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Dr. Lynn W. Thompson of Omaha, who assumed his duties Thursday as state health director, said space is the most immediate problem in the Department of Health.

The 50-year-old general practioner is using a rolltop desk he brought with him and sharing office space with Assistant Director J. G. Lemonds.

"It was a Christmas present and is at least 75 years old," Dr. Thompson said, stroking the massive desk. "It was once used by the general auditor of the Union Pacific."

"I believe in mixing the old and the new," he added, noting he has another rolltop in his den at home.

He philosophically pointed out that life, medicine and administration "should mix the old and the new."

Aside from his own space problem, Dr. Thompson said more space is being secured for the department "so that our people can do a decent day's work without sitting on top of each other."

He said the Division of Environmental Health probably will move into outside office space, but "ultimately our plan is to pull all divisions back under one roof."

A combination central library and conference room will go into vacant space being allocated to the department.

Dr. Thompson said he feels all councils and committees of the department as well as the state board should meet in the Capitol.

"The conference room will be used by all boards under the department," he explained.

Dr. Thompson, a University of Nebraska medical graduate, practiced in Omaha for 25 years before his appointment to the state post. He plans to commute from Omaha.

Also beginning work as a new state official was John W. North, first director of the newly-created Division of Alcoholism in the Department of Public Institutions.

Student Found Guilty Of Motor Vehicle Homicide

A University of Nebraska student Thursday changed his plea from innocent to nolo contendere and was found guilty of motor vehicle homicide in connection with a three-car accident last October which resulted in the death of 51-year-old Melvin L. Waters.

Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin deferred sentencing Rodney Rehm, 18, of DeWitt, pending an investigation by the adult probation office.

According to police, Rehm was the driver of a car which collided with one driven by Mr. Waters and then struck a car driven by Edward L. Cooley of Walton after the initial impact.

Lincoln Diocese Catholic Women Set Convention

The Lincoln Diocesan Council of Catholic Women will hold its biannual convention in Lincoln April 18. About 1,500 women from Nebraska's southernmost diocese are expected to attend.

Keynote speaker at the convention will be Sister Clare Marie Sawyer, a sociologist at Alverno College in Milwaukee, Wis. The theme of the convention, "Apostles in Action," will be carried out through a series of panel discussions on human relations, family life and ecumenicalism.

The convention was announced at a Thursday meeting of about 50 women representing the 13 deaneries of the diocese.

Mrs. E. A. Olson of Beatrice, president, told the council board members that the deanery "should be the springboard, link and forwarding agency of this council." She urged that action replace words to make the deanery the communication link between the council and the individual parishes.

Population Threatens

Washington (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said that the world's runaway population growth is as great a threat to peace as nuclear weapons.

$20 Million REA Loan Said 'Good Possibility'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

There is "a good possibility" that some $20 million in Rural Electrification Administration loan funds may be available to help finance new transmission facilities in Nebraska, a rural electric spokesman said Thursday.

However, Dil Blatchford of Columbus stressed, "we are strictly in the preliminary stages" of probing the prospects for such a loan.

Blatchford is general manager of the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, which represents 24 rural districts.

"We do not have things tied down yet, but they are looking favorable," he noted.

Blatchford is working in cooperation with D. W. Hill of Columbus, general manager of Consumers Public Power District, in seeking loan funds.

Federal REA loans are available at 2% interest, considerably less than the rate paid for private loans.

The funds would be used to help finance CPPD's construction of 345-kilovolt electric transmission lines from its nuclear power plant site at Brownville to its generation unit at Hallam, and then on to Grand Island.

Both Blatchford and Hill conferred with federal officials in Washington this week, including REA Administrator Norman Clapp.

Blatchford said he expects an answer will be forthcoming on the possible loan within 90 days. No final decision is likely before 30 days, he noted.

Discussions have been underway for three or four months, he said.

Nebraska Power Review Board Chairman William Norton earlier this week urged rural electric districts to participate in financing of the facilities planned by Consumers.

Total cost of CPPD's 800,000-kilowatt nuclear generation plant at Brownville — which is being built in conjunction with Iowa Power and Light Company — and allied transmission facilities has been pegged at about $130 million.

2 Women Killed In Factory Blast

Loveland, Ohio (AP) — Two women were killed and four other persons were injured Thursday when an explosion ripped the Tri-State Manufacturing Co. in this southwestern Ohio community.

The dead were identified as Hilda Wilson, 56, of near Loveland and May South, 56, of near Lebanon.

POSTCARD by Stan Waterman

It's here in the country pubs you can find someone to sing you "The Ballad of the West Clare Railroad"—

"Are ye right there Michael, are ye right?
"D'ye think that we'll be home before the light?
" 'Tis all depending whether, the old engine holds together
"But we might now Michael, so we might."

☆ ☆ ☆

County Clare is the green, misty land of Ireland. The ruined stone castles of the O'Briens. The Abbeys fired by Cromwell's troopers. The steep drop off to the Atlantic at the wild Cliffs of Moher where men let themselves down on ropes to rob the sea birds' nests.

The other day I walked through the morning mist and the wet green grass to climb a hill and stand on the stone walls of a Celtic fort built 1000 B.C.

☆ ☆ ☆

"It was when they were building the West Clare railroad a hundred years ago, a workman stuck his pick in the bank and out tumbled the greatest gold find in Europe," said the Clare County man.

It was worked gold—gold ornaments of the time of bronze.

They suppose it was some raiders fleeing from the fort who had to stand and fight. Buried the gold hastily and were driven off or killed.

Anyway, it lay there for 3000 years until an Irish workman in the railroad line put a pick in the ground.

It is a two-mile enclosure, three rings of stone fortress. a great hunting ground for an archaeologist.

The Irish would like to have a university with some money come over and work it up—with Irish supervision of course. Ireland doesn't have money to put in big digging projects.

☆ ☆ ☆

We drove through the countryside with the Irish rain plastering the windshield so fast the wipers could scarcely clear it.

"It's always raining somewhere in Ireland," they say.

We were coming down the Shannon by Killaloe. And you can go in the church and see the original door and churchly stones carved by the Viking Danes.

"There's many Irish with Viking name and blood," said the Clare man. "McAuliffe now. Did you ever think that it was once MacOlaf — son of Olaf? There's many more."

The seafaring Danes held all the big ports. Dublin, Waterford, Cork. Their long ships sailed up the Shannon.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Irish roads are twisty and narrow. Just wide enough for two-way traffic. The fields are bordered with stone fence. The cottages are whitewashed and covered with brown thatch.

There are salmon and sea trout in the rushing streams.

On the roads occasionally you see "the traveling people." Wild looking folk in painted wagons.

☆ ☆ ☆

"They're tinkers and horse traders mainly," said the Clare man. "And they travel like gypsies. The women beg in the towns, and the men mend pots. When they find them. The mending of pots is not so important in these modern times."

The traveling people give you a shout, "Hello!" from the painted wagons. And you turn into the gates of Shannon Airport where great jets scream into the landing, 5½ hours from New York.

Peterson Claims Support For View On Train Service

State Railway Commission Chairman Fred Peterson said Thursday Nebraskans apparently concur in his views about inferior passenger train service.

He said his mail is running "a little better than nine to one" in support of his position that railroads themselves have discouraged passenger business.

Peterson said that because of the mail support, the commission will continue its struggle to obtain a full public hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission on current applications of railroads to drop passenger trains.

If the requests are granted, "there will be little remaining in the way of Midwest passenger train service," he said.

Peterson's father spent 37 years as a traveling freight and passenger agent for the Chicago and North Western Railroad.

Porter Appointed Bridge Engineer

State Engineer John Hossack Thursday announced the appointment of John Porter as bridge engineer.

He replaces Art Dederman who was elevated to division engineer last month.

Porter began working with the Department of Roads in 1950; was named assistant bridge engineer in the department in 1959; and became assistant engineer of maps and plans responsible for the supervision of primary and state secondary road design in the road design division in 1965.

It's A Beautiful Morning—For News

Afternoon Service

Arrangements of carnations and snapdragons appointed the chancel of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C., for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Ann Wickersham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Wickersham of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and Managua, Nicaragua, and Richard Perry Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Nelson of Lincoln, which took place on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 27.

Mrs. Warren Wickersham of McLean, Va., was her sister-in-law's matron of honor and only attendant. She appeared in a long-sleeved, long-skirted frock of pink crepe.

Joseph Howard, Jr., of Denver, Colo., served as best man, and seating the guests were Warren Wickersham of McLean, Va., and John Wickersham.

The bride chose a sheath gown of silk Chantilly lace for her wedding. The boddice was smoothly fitted above the straight, slim skirt. Her triple-tiered veil was held to the head with a crown of silk chiffon petals dotted with pearls. She also carried a handmade Battenburg lace handkerchief which had been carried as a bride by the bridegroom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. D. E. Perry.

The bride is a graduate of Florida State University. Mr. Nelson was graduated from the University of Nebraska and received a J.D. degree from the University of Nebraska College of Law. He now is minority counsel for the Senate Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on constitutional rights.

First—we want to know if anyone has seen Mrs. Harper Sibley of Rochester, N.Y., at a Lincoln wedding within, say, the past year. If you haven't an idea in the world who Mrs. Sibley might be, we refer you to last week's edition of Life—and we hope you still have it around.

In that issue of Life there is quite a feature on 'Grande Dames' who, as you may guess, are older women who still have their ear to the ground and their eye on the ball.

It was the Editor's Note—Life editor always has a note—that told us a little about Mrs. Sibley.

The 80-year-old Mrs. Sibley apparently was supposed to have been at the Colony Club in New York to have her picture taken by Life's photographer. But Mrs. Sibley wrote a letter which stated:

"I did not go to the Colony Club after all as we went r i g h t from my m e e t i n g to the Kennedy Airport to fly to Lincoln, Neb., for the wedding."

Alright. W h o s e wedding? We've had inquiries. So if anyone in Lincoln had Mrs. Sibley on a wedding guest list, let us know.

• • •

This morning we welcome to Lincoln Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bryan who, we're most regretful to say, will be only temporary residents.

Mr. Bryan, who is a native of Elmcreek, and who retired in December as the president of Union Carbide Consumer Products Division, is far from a stranger in Lincoln. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Engineering, and not too long ago received an honorary degree from the University of Nebraska. He was asked to join the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration graduate School staff, and accepted—for one semester.

Right now Mr. and Mrs. Bryan are calling Sky Park Manor home, but we suspect that they are keeping the home fires burning at their permanent residence in Chappaqua, N.Y.

• • •

We are quite sure that Mrs. Bryan, who tells us she has been in Lincoln numerous times but only for brief periods, will be kept busy.

Just yesterday, for instance, she was the honored guest when Mrs. Giles Henkle entertained a small group of guests at an informal brunch at her home.

• • •

And off to Fanwood, N.J., on Sunday will go Mrs. Harold Hoppe who will spend several days as the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hoppe.

And mention of the Hoppe family reminds us that Mrs. Hal Hoppe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolh Pokorny of Schuyler, were in Lincoln on Wednesday evening—the dinner guests of Mrs. Hoppe.

• • •

It always is fun to hear good news about the away-at-school set. This morning we're offering congratulations to Miss Diane Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Perkins who is a freshman at Temple Buell College in Denver. Just in case you didn't know, Temple Buell College is the old Colorado Women's College—

But our story is about Miss Perkins who is on the Dean's Honor Roll for the first semester of 1967-68. Miss Perkins received a 3.5 grade point. The young lady also has other activities, including the Student Government Committee—She is the representative for her floor at Pulliam Hall.

And did you know that Miss Susan Perkins transferred from the University of Nebraska, where she had completed her sophomore year, to Denver University?

Former Coed, Bride

Announcement is made this morning of the marriage of Miss Barbara Gail Rolfe, daughter of Mrs. William S. Rolfe of Sioux City, Iowa, and the late Mr. Rolfe, to John Francis McCormick, son of Judge and Mrs. Lawrence W. McCormick, also of Sioux City, which took place on Saturday, Jan. 27.

The ceremony was solemnized at Blessed Sacrament Church in Sioux City.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and now is a member of the Sioux City public schools faculty. Mr. McCormick attended Loras College and now is a senior at Morningside College.

Until Mr. McCormick enters the Armed Forces he and his bride will reside in Sioux City.

Shower

Complimenting Miss Linda Nelson, whose marriage to Duane Ihrie will take place on March 2, Mrs. Lee Hendry, Mrs. J. P. Overgaard and Mrs. Clark Anderwon were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Hendry on Thursday. Twenty guests were invited, and the soon-to-be bride was presented with a kitchen shower.

One of the most important newsmakers on this particular day is, of course, the Groundhog who, traditionally, has the most famous shadow (or lack of it) anywhere. But whether his annual appearance will in fact forecast either six more weeks of winter, or an early spring is open to debate—and the whims of the weather man.

But the news this morning isn't entirely confined to Groundhogs and speculation about the weather, for in Eastborough there are four new residents who are all sporting Texas drawls.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Floyd are the native Texans settling down at a 730 No. 66th address after moving here from Oklahoma City, Okla. Arriving in the city two weeks ago, the Floyd family includes two sons, Gary, 14, and Kenton, 13, who, we hear, like to fish and boat with their father. As for the lady of the house, Mrs. Floyd, in the midst of making curtains at the moment, likes to sew, knit and antique.

Kimballcrest newcomers who are making their new home at 1930 So. 44th are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Schupbach. Mr. and Mrs. Schupbach, who arrived in Lincoln in late December from Golden, Colo., have one son, Mark, who is 18. Mr. Schupbach is vice president in charge of marketing for the Seal Rite Manufacturing Co.

Capturing the spotlight these days at the Kimberly Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Knight, is Master Todd Alan Knight who made his appearance at Lincoln General Hospital on January 23.

Among young Todd's most ardent admirers are his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Knight, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bumgartner, all of Ottumwa, Iowa. Visiting in Lincoln to get acquainted with the new addition to the Knight family has been Mrs. Knight's grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Ware of Winigan, Mo.

Congratulations are in order for one suburban resident who was among those receiving advanced degrees at last Saturday's commencement at the University of Nebraska. Receiving his M.S. in electrical engineering was Bethany Park Heights resident, Mr. Wayne Roelle.

A bit of celebrating was done following the ceremony, when members of both Mr. and Mrs. Roelle's families joined them for dinner at a local restaurant. Helping Mr. Roelle mark the occasion were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roelle, and Mrs. Roelle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rainforth, all of Litchfield; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Dean Roelle and family; Mrs. Roelle's brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Freeland and family of Aurora, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kwiatkowski and family of Omaha, and Mrs. Richard Gallaway and children of Grand Island. Of course the Roelle's two children, Cynthia and Curtis, were very much present.

Bidding Quiz

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AQJ6 ♥53 ♦Q2 ♣AQ984
2. ♠KQ93 ♥5 ♦Q85 ♣KQJ72
3. ♠AJ874 ♥8 ♦10 ♣AQJ963
4. ♠AQ92 ♥— ♦K7 ♣KQJ9843

1. Four hearts. Naturally, you should feel somewhat reluctant to raise partner with only two baby trumps, but there are times when you have to do this. It is certainly reasonable to assume that partner has at least a six-card suit after he has bid hearts three times, and his suit is therefore playable opposite any two trumps.

Since we have a sound opening bid facing partner's opening bid, a game contract is clearly indicated. With North unable to support clubs or spades, and apparently unwilling to play notrump, we have no choice but to undertake the game in hearts.

2. Pass. By bidding in minimum terms twice after opening with a heart, North has unquestionably indicated a weak opening bid. Both his rebids show willingness to play at less than a game contract. So the question to be resolved is whether our hand opposite a bare opening bid is good enough to justify a game contract.

All signs point to a pass. Promising as our hand may have been when North opened the bidding, his subsequent bids have substantially reduced our values. Partner lacks a fit in clubs or spades, and we have no fit for hearts. Game is therefore extremely unlikely.

3. Three spades. This identifies our 6-5 distribution and should make it easy for partner to choose the best contract. Since we would not have bid spades twice with only a four card suit, North learns from the three spade bid that we have five spades. At the same time, our clubs become marked as greater in length than our spades because we would have bid spades first had the two suits been equal in length.

4. Five clubs. Partner having bid weakly up to this point, all thoughts of a slam must now be abandoned. However, to play the hand at less than game is also out of the question, despite partner's obvious lack of enthusiasm.

We can play with clubs as trump even if partner has a singleton or void, and, since the hand is too unbalanced as well as too dangerous for notrump play, a leap to game in clubs probably offers the best chance.

ABBY: put him on ice

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you make of a man who buries his wife on a Friday and asks you for a date on the following Wednesday? I accepted, thinking he needed someone to console him, but I got the surprise of my life. He acted like a sailor on shore leave after 8 months on a ship.

His wife and I were very good friends and I realize that she had been sick for a year, but I can't see any excuse for the rush this man was in to make up for lost time. When he asked me out for the next night I told him I didn't think we should be seen in public together because people might talk, so he's been parking himself over here every night telling me how lonesome he is, and how much he needs "female companionship."

Abby, I'm a widow and I am lonesome, too, but I'm not THAT lonesome. How long do you think I should wait before I let him court me? I know lots of women in this town who would be glad to have him.

ENCINO WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: The man shows a shocking lack of respect for the memory of his wife. Put him on ice for about a year. He could use some cooling off.

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who is so afraid she'll die of germs that she has people thinking she is off her nut. She carries a big bottle of disinfectant around in her purse to clean off the rim of a glass or cup before she will drink from it. She also cleans the silverware in this manner before using it.

Now I'm not talking about taking such precautions in a restaurant — she does this right in someone's home when she is a guest. Pretty insulting, isn't it? She is a nice lady, but people are beginning to talk about her.

My husband says to forget it, that everyone is a little peculiar about something. I would like your opinion.

GERM-FIGHTER'S RELATIVE

DEAR RELATIVE: If this is the only "peculiarity" the lady has, I would say she is harmless. But if I were you, I'd watch her for other symptoms.

AAU Gets Sanction Privileges

Washington (AP)—A federal arbitration board issued its long-awaited report Thursday on the feud over control of amateur athletes but it was unclear whether it would settle the dispute between the two major regulatory bodies.

The board, headed by labor mediator Theodore Kheel of New York, said the Amateur Athletic Union must sanction all international and open domestic track meets. The National Collegiate Athletic Association could hold domestic meets which are closed to all but fulltime students.

The U.S. Track and Field Federation, an arm of the NCAA, could sponsor open competition, under the board's ruling, but would need the sanction of the AAU.

That sanction, however, would be automatic if the USTFF satisfied all the AAU's international requirements.

The report calls for a coordinating committee consisting of equal number of members from the AAU-National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and the NCAA-USTFF with an impartial chairman to be chosen by the groups involved or the vice president of the United States.

All disputes over the interpretation, application and alleged violations of the rules contained in the report or any other disputes would be decided by the committee with the chairman casting a deciding vote in case of ties.

The rules set down by the board would last five years.

Kheel, whose board was created in December 1965 by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, said the report is a binding arbitration but if any parties subject to its rules "set out to frustrate our decision, they would probably succeed. But if they do, they will do a great disservice to all the amateur athletes involved."

The report asks that the presidents of each of the organizations involved notify the Senate Commerce Committee by Feb. 10 whether they will abide by the rules. A more formal notification could come at a later date when the executive councils of the organizations would take up the matter.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the commerce committee which set up the arbitration, said if all the organizations do not go along with the board's recommendations, his panel would have to take up legislation currently pending in the senate to create a governing body for amateur athletics.

"The only alternative course we have is to take up the several pieces of legislation that are before us," he said. "We will do anything that will settle this dispute and get the show on the road for the Olympics."

This was a reference to the 1968 Olympic Games to be held in Mexico City. Many sports followers have expressed fears that the AAU-NCAA feud could have an adverse effect on American chances in this No. 1 international competition.

The quarrel between the AAU and the NCAA has been going on for more than 50 years but has become increasingly bitter during the past few years.

KU's Green Will Become Baylor Aide

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)—A quick change in the Kansas football coaching staff took place Thursday with the announcement that Jack Green has accepted a position at Baylor and is being replaced by former UCLA tackle Terry Donahue. Green coached Kansas linebackers.

Green, former head coach at Vanderbilt and captain of Army's national championship team of 1945, leaves Monday for Waco, Tex., to become defensive assistant to John Bridgers at the Southwest Conference school.

Kansas Coach Pepper Rodgers immediately elevated Donohue to his varsity staff. Donohue, a 23-year-old bachelor, helped coach Kansas freshmen last fall in his first year out of college.

Rodgers said Donohue's specific coaching assignment would be determined later.

Although he weighs only 197, Donohue started 21 games at defensive tackle for UCLA's 1965-66 teams that compiled a 17-3-1 record, including a Rose Bowl victory over Michigan State.

Rodgers was backfield coach at UCLA the two years Donohue played.

'Bolts Face 1-2 Omaha Prep Punch

It's okay with Lane Birkel if lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place.

The Pius X basketball coach just wants his Thunderbolts to strike twice in two different places on separate occasions this weekend.

Would you believe in Omaha on Friday night against the Tech High Trojans and at home against top-rated Creighton Prep Saturday?

As though Prep wasn't a big enough order for one weekend, fourth-ranked Tech will try to throw up the first roadblock at Birkel's 'Bolts, rated eighth in this week's poll.

"It's the toughest pair anyone in Class A has challenged on a single weekend," the Pius mentor declared, "but we're showing steady improvement and we hope to make a good showing."

The 'Bolts will rely on the improved play of forwards Gary Walker and Jim Eckles to aid ace center Jim Regelean in the crucial clashes.

Walker has been a consistent scoring threat. Birkel called his junior standout "a real determined player. He seems to give his best when we need him most." He was referring to Walker's leadership when Regelean has been in foul trouble, as has often been the case lately.

The Prep game at Pius is one of four games on tap in Lincoln Saturday, while two local contests are on the Friday night slate.

The big one Friday night is a return match between Southeast and Lincoln High at Pershing Auditorium. The second-rated Knights won the first encounter, 65-48.

"The Links are definitely improved," Southeast coach Wally McNaught emphasized, "and there's no doubt but what they played a subpar game in our first meeting."

McNaught went on to say that "we aren't even thinking of our home game Saturday. We expect a tight, tough battle with Lincoln."

The other Friday night game pits Ed Johnson's Northeast Rockets against North Platte at the East High Gym.

In the meantime East will be looking for its second straight win when Paul Forch's club travels to Columbus. The Discoverers are 7-4 on the year.

North Platte comes to Lincoln for the weekend. After the Northeast game Friday, the Bulldogs stay to meet Lincoln High at Johnson Gym Saturday evening.

The East High Gym will be the site for two Saturday battles.

Southeast will entertain Omaha Burke Saturday afternoon, with the reserves starting at 1 and the varsity clash set for 2:45 p.m.

"We had to switch the site from our own gym Saturday night," Knight athletic director "Dub" Salestrom explained, "since our seating will not accommodate a game that has generated this much interest."

Burke has captured its last four in a row and hopes for a big upset against the highly-ranked Southeast quintet, now 9-2 for the season.

The Northeast Rockets will use the East Gym as its home floor for the second straight night when they host Grand Island there that evening.

HUSKERS TRIP COLORADO

NU Has Share Of 2nd In Loop

. . . NEBRASKA WINS, 87-73

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska moved into a three-way tie for second place in the Big Eight basketball race Thursday night with a hard-earned 87-73 victory at the NU Coliseum over a Colorado club that looked for awhile like it might make the Huskers its first league victim.

Colorado led for most of the first 17 minutes before Nebraska hit for six straight points and a 39-35 lead with just under three minutes left in the half.

Nebraska never trailed thereafter but was never able to expand beyond several nine-point leads until the last 3½ minutes, with the final 14-point spread being the game's largest.

The victory gives the Huskers a 3-2 conference standing, the same as Missouri and Oklahoma. Kansas State and Iowa State are 4-2, with the Huskers making a move for the top this Saturday and next Monday on a swing to Oklahoma State, then Oklahoma.

It wasn't over until the final 3½ minutes, when the Huskers finally took a lead beyond nine points, scoring four times in that span on point-blank baseline drives, by Stu Lantz on a feed from Bob Cauble, Tom Scantlebury from Tom Baack, the same pair in reverse and then Baack from Lantz.

Lantz' bucket made it 78-67 with 3:33 to go and Nebraska went on from there for its 10th victory in 16 starts. Stu had 28 points for the night, 21 of them in the first half to lead the NU comeback. He had four tip-ins before intermission.

Husker coach Joe Cipriano said about that first 20 minutes, "We did not play good defense and did a poor job of blocking them off the boards," before his club adjusted. Colorado was playing its first game since January 15.

The hot shooting of Pat Frink, Mike Rebich and Chuck Williams led the Buffs to a 55 per cent first-half average from the field and kept them ahead in the early going. Frink hit Colorado's first eight points and four of the next six, with Williams canning six of the next eight.

After Lantz' opening tip-in for Nebraska, Frink hit three buckets and a pair from the line for an 8-2 lead. Colorado's biggest bulge was at 14-7 before the Husker press began to force most of Colorado's 14 first-half turnovers, one of which was an interception and drive by Jim Damm that tied it 25-all.

Colorado then rattled off seven straight points, stealing the ball twice during the surge, for a 34-29 lead but Bob Gratopp tied it at 35 with a wide-open bucket from the right baseline and two free throws by Tom Baack gave Nebraska a permanent 37-35 lead three minutes to the half.

In the next two minutes, Ron Simmons popped in two buckets and a free throw to boost the Huskers to a 47-42 halftime lead.

The clubs pretty well traded baskets most of the second half, Colorado always narrowing the gap after the Huskers appeared set to build a comfortable margin.

Nebraska had nine-point leads at 56-47, 59-50, 64-55, 66-57, 68-59, 72-63 and 74-65 but Colorado would always creep up again, once to 51-47, again at 59-55 after five straight markers. The margin was always between four and nine for the first 16 minutes of the second half before the Huskers put it away.

Most Of Budget For Aids

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

The largest share of money being requested in the proposed Lincoln Parks and Recreation Department budget is for general improvements such as buildings, lighting, landscaping, etc.

Recreation Superintendent Elmo Meroney, in his first year as head of that department, is seeking to improve indoor recreation facilities for all age groups.

To help in this goal, Meroney is asking for one new recreation center each year for the next six years with the sites to be determined later.

The first, according to Meroney's estimate, would cost $150,000 with a central center to be built in 1971-72 at a cost of $500,000.

Meroney's six-year plan for recreation centers would cost a total of $1,370,000.

Other major building requests on the budget submitted by Meroney and Superintendent of Parks Don Smith include a Recreation and Park Department maintenance and shop building in Antelope Park, a cultural arts building in Woods Park, a park and golf maintenance building in Pioneers Park and a greenhouse complex in Sawyer Snell Park.

The proposed maintenance and shop building in Antelope Park would cost $100,000 and would be built in the coming year if money is appropriated.

"We don't have enough room in our current buildings to store all of our equipment to protect it from the elements," Smith points out, noting that upwards of 40 pieces of equipment must be left outside.

"This proposed building would allow us room to store all our equipment as well as giving our mechanics space to work on the equipment," he adds. "At present, we don't even have adequate space to make repairs."

The greenhouse complex, at a cost of $110,000, would be adequate to grow flowers for use in all the city's parks, Smith explains.

The cultural arts building is a $275,000 project and the maintenance building in Pioneers Park, which would serve the golf course and the entire park area, would cost $25,000.

The Parks and Recreation budget will be the major item of business on the City Parks and Recreation Board's meeting at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Methods Of 'Attacking' Explained

(17th of a Series)
By JOHN YOUNG
Holmes Park Golf Pro

Today, I want to cover some methods of "attacking" a course for a lower score.

A graph is a good way for you to note your progress as you play. After each round, record your score with a mark in the appropriate box on the graph.

Draw a chart and write down each shot that you hit during the round, then keep track of the errors that you most commonly commit and practice correcting them.

Most golf courses have markers of some type along the edge of the fairway which indicate the distance to the green. Some courses use stakes while others use small, uniform evergreen bushes. Because some courses place their markers at 100 yards from the green while others place them at 135 or 150 yards, be sure of what yardage they are using at the particular course you are playing.

Many good amateurs and most professionals map each course they play. College teams started this and it has spread. First, get a scorecard of the course. Then on each hole, pace the yardage from a landmark such as a tree or bunker to the green.

Record hidden sand traps, the best position of the fairway to place your drive, the fact that a certain green is usually dry or soft, and if there is a dangerous area behind a green or an out of bounds.

Record and save this information for your future rounds on that course.

Learn to read greens. Study the contours and slopes on each green. After a short while you will be able to determine the direction your ball will roll. I always study slopes from a good distance away from my ball and I always look at the terrain beyond the green. Often greens are constructed on slopes and what appears to be a downhill putt is actually level or perhaps even uphill. Putts will break more when near water or mountains. They break away from mountains and towards water.

Before playing, practice the clubs that are most important for this day's play. If playing a course that features large greens, practice putting. When playing a tree-lined course, practice your No. 1 wood. What does the course that you're going to play offer: sand traps, hard greens? Practice running approach shots or extra height on your irons. Windy? Practice low shots (a wider stance).

Lombardi Quits GB Position

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — Ironwilled Vince Lombardi stepped down Thursday night as coach of the world-champion Green Bay Packers and named long-time assistant Phil Bengtson to succeed him.

Lombardi said he would remain in Green Bay as the National Football Leagues club's general manager.

The decision came only a month after Lombardi guided the Packers to a third straight NFL title and a second straight Super Bowl triumph.

The coach told a gathering of Packer directors and newsmen that the responsibilities of both coaching and running the team as general manager had become too much for one man.

The growth of professional football, the problems created by the merger of the National and American Football Leagues and the increasing burden of player relations demanded a full-time general manager, Lombardi said.

"I must relinquish one of the jobs," Lombardi said.

He then announced he was turning over head coaching duties to Bengtson, whom he described as a "loyal and dedicated assistant."

"Under his leadership and direction, Green Bay football will continue to be excellent. Green Bay football will continue to grow," Lombardi said.

Bengtson, 56, has been Lombardi's defensive coach since Lombardi took over the ailing Green Bay franchise and turned it into a winner 1959.

The former Minnesota athlete has long held the reputation of being one of football's foremost defensive coaches.

As Packer coach Lombardi won as no other coach in professional football ever had won.

"Winning isn't everything," Lombardi once said. "It's the only thing." With the Packers under Lombardi, it almost was.

In nine seasons as Packer coach, Lombardi's teams won 89 regular season games, lost only 29, and tied four.

ISU's Cain Finds Niche

. . . GRATOPP MOVES UP

Kansas City, Mo. — At one time, Iowa State's Bill Cain had that left-out feeling. Nobody wanted him, or so it must have seemed to the high scoring sophomore who is the second ranked scorer and fourth best rebounder in the Big Eight Conference.

Though he turned out to be a player of fair note at White Plains, New York, High, his ability didn't really cause his door bell to be rung many times. The Cyclones' Glen Anderson made his find while sitting in on a county tournament. The glitter of Cain's hidden potential apparently glistened to Anderson. Cain followed west.

Now, he is sporting a 21.5 scoring mark and an average of 10 rebounds a game. The point accumulation places him behind only teammate Don Smith (25.1), who also leads the rebounders with 12.8 a contest.

Moving into the elite group this week were Oklahoma's Garfield Heard and Nebraska's Bob Gratopp. Holding a spot among the best all season has been Missouri's Don Tomlinson.

A balky knee is improving and Heard has hit 16, 22, and 19 points his last three outings, bumping his scoring average to 14.2, 12th best. Helping his scoring burst has been sharp shooting — he has hit over 50 per cent from the field his last four games to put his accuracy level at .508. He also makes his first appearance among the league's rebounding leaders this week, thanks to 28 in the last two games to raise his pace to a fifth-place 8.2.

Gratopp has pushed his seasonal mark to 11.3 — not bad when a quick look at the scoring standings show the Huskers' Stuart Lantz and Tom Baack ranking third and fourth this week with 21.0 and 20.3 averages. Like Heard, Gratopp has benefitted from very accurate shooting. He's seventh from the field (.517) and sixth from the line (.789).

NU Tankers Host Three

Nebraska swimmers will have a busy weekend as they host Colorado and Missouri tonight for a double-dual and a tough team from Bemidji State College on Saturday.

Coach John Reta expects a strong performance from Missouri and labels the Tigers "an excellent team, with good balance." Colorado is 0-5 for the season and is considered one of the weaker teams in the Big Eight.

Reta said the Huskers held a spirited workout Monday, following their eight-point loss to Oklahoma. He said his team is "coming along fine."

Five Mat Teams Go At Coliseum

Nebraska's entertainment package of the week includes a two-day wrestling multiple dual setup that will feature five teams: Colorado, Missouri, Southern Illinois, South Dakota State and Nebraska.

Two meets will be held during each Friday and Saturday session. In all, there will be eight matches, plus a special Saturday meeting of the freshman teams from Nebraska and Missouri.

Other Wrestling Developments: Senior Jerry Langdon will not be eligible for competition this semester for scholastic reasons. Junior Gene Libal, who had to sit out first semester competition because of grades, will be able to wrestle this semester. Libal was third in the 1967 National AAU championships in Lincoln.

Buel Surprised With Pin Lead

. . . AFTER FIRST 600

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

How does it feel for a one-night-a-week bowler to roll his first 600 series and take over the singles lead in a tournament all in one night?

According to Dennis Buel of Hickman, it's surprising.

"I was a little surprised more than anything else," Buel said after rolling a 608 series at Bowl-Mor, his first. Wednesday night in the Lincoln City Men's Bowling Tournament.

Buel's 608, along with a 105-pin handicap, pushed his score to 713 for the men's singles lead in the tournament, two pins better than second place D. J. Erington's 711 series.

Buel, a 25-year-old father of two, bowls only one night a week for the Hickman Elevator team in the Wednesday Night Men's League at Bowl-Mor. "I substituted in another league," Buel admits, "but that's about all.

Prior to Wednesday night his best series was a 597.

On top of everything else, the 153-average bowler is bowling for the frst time in the doubles and singles competition of the tournament.

"I was on a team last year," he says, "but never in the doubles and singles."

Buel, who has been bowling for three years, isn't entered in team play this year. "We got goofed up somehow," he says, "so we didn't get in as a team."

Another member of his Hickman Elevator team, Don Tiedeman of Firth, however, teamed with Dennis in the doubles, but the pair didn't fare as well.

"I only had a 493 or 498 in doubles, Buel admits, explaining the plight of his team's doubles troubles.

Buel plans to try his luck again next year, taking hope in this year's developments, although he doesn't feel his 713 will stand up to win this year's title.

"I got kinda lucky," he says, "so I might try it again.

"It's very doubtful," he admits, concerning the vulnerability of his leading score. "It might" win, "but I doubt it."

Owners' Boycott Prevents Racing

Arcadia, Calif. (AP)—An owners' boycott today will prevent racing at Santa Anita Friday, officials said.

The entry box opened at 8 a.m. but it was closed at 9 a.m. by F. E. Kilroe, racing secretary.

He said there were not enough entries to present a racing program Friday.

The boycott resulting from a dispute over purses between owners and the track management did not affect today's nine-race program.

Glovers Eye District Test February 9

Area boxers have their work cut out for them over the next week and a half as they continue to prepare for the Lincoln District Golden Gloves which gets underway in the 4-H Building at the State Fairgrounds Feb. 9.

The two-day event, running both Friday and Saturday, will be a preliminary to the Midwest Golden Gloves slated for Omaha's Civic Auditorium Feb. 23-24.

Three of the winners in the Lincoln District are back to defend their titles and a repeat chance to enter Midwest competition and earn a right to fight in the National Golden Gloves set for Phoenix, Ariz.

Mike Wilson, the flashy 126-pounder from the Roberts Boxing Club, won his title match last season in the district with a second round TKO over Tim Blythe.

John Kuebler, another Roberts boxer, won last year's 175-pound class with a decision over Randy Nelson. Nelson fought with the Ted White team last year which is now the El Rancho Club. Nelson will be back for the districts.

The other title defender, Neil Bickley of El Rancho, dumped Mike McMurry of Roberts to take last season's honors.

The Lincoln Job Corps will add its fighters to the entries from Roberts and El Rancho to comprise the local talent in the district tourney.

El Rancho will have Dave Oldfield at the 118 level to go with Nelson at 160 and Bickley at 135.

The Job Corps, according to coach Ted Vactor, is expected to have at least six fighters ready for the weekend affair. Jessie Harris (140), James Reese (152), Joe Beasley (133), Alex McMillan (158), Ross Scott (165) and Hayward Strange (165) are presently in training.

The Roberts team has Bob Gropp(135), Jim Money (118), Mike Gropp (112), Mike Cline (112), and Monte Cady (147) ready to see action.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Roy C. Feltman

Did you know there was once a man who, during one part of his life was a famous Hollywood actor and won an Academy Award—and in another part of his life was a boxer and fought the heavyweight champion of the world! . . . Do you have any idea who this was? . . . Remember movie star Victor McLaglen? . . . Most people don't know that in the early 1900s he was a top boxer and had a bout against Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion of the world . . . Then, McLaglen turned to acting and won the Academy Award for Best Actor in 1935 for his performance in "The Informer".

* * *

How long does it take you to change a tire on your car? . . . Did you know that during the Indianapolis 500-mile race, pit crews are trained to change all four tires on a car in the phenomenal time of 20 seconds!

* * *

Ever wonder why a left-hand pitcher in baseball is called a "southpaw" . . . Ball parks are usually laid out so the batter faces east to avoid a setting sun shining in his eyes . . . So, if center-field is east, the south end of ball parks parallels the first base line . . . A left-hand pitcher's throwing hand is on the first base side of the diamond . . . Thus, he's a "southpaw".

* * *

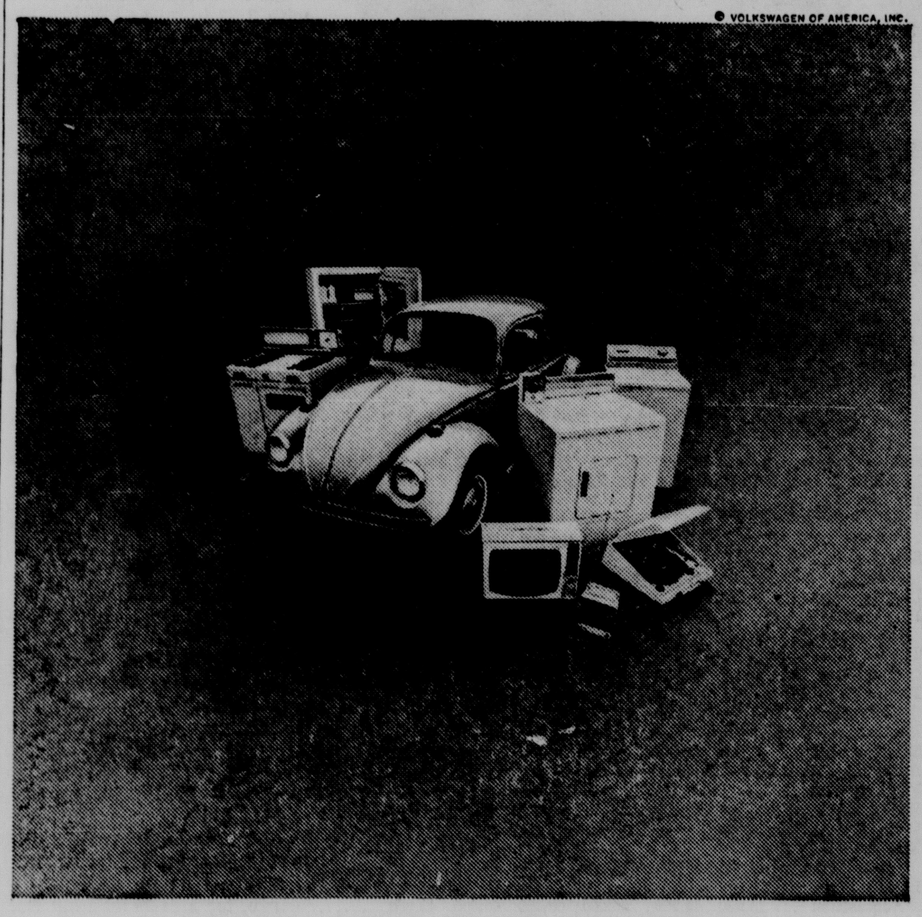

I bet you didn't know . . . That Bourbon Supreme is the only charcoal distilled whiskey in the world. Its good taste justifies its name. Ask for it by name at your favorite package store or tavern.

All for the price of a fancier priced car.

$3260 is the latest average price paid for a new car these days. (So says the Automobile Manufacturers Association.)

$3260 will also buy you a new range, a new refrigerator, a new dryer, a new washer, two new television sets, a record player and a $1829 Volkswagen.

Of course our little package doesn't include all those tricky little items you find on those fancier-priced cars. (Like an electric trunk opener. An electric ashtray cleaner. Or headlights that disappear when the sun comes out.)

But it does include good food, clean clothes, nice music and a chance to watch all the summer reruns in color.

A lot of people frown on a Volkswagen because they feel it doesn't offer enough in the way of fancy gadgetry.

Look again.

How fancy can you get?

Nixon Runs Again

By RELMAN MORIN

New York (AP) — Richard M. Nixon announced formally Thursday that he is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and said, "I believe I have found some answers" to the problems confronting the United States.

"I have decided therefore, to enter the Republican presidential primary in New Hampshire," his statement said.

It was issued in the form of a letter to the citizens of New Hampshire. Nixon prepared to open his drive with three days of appearances in that state, beginning Friday. From there, his office said, he will go to Wisconsin and Oklahoma.

In his statement, Nixon said the United States is in "grave difficulties around the world and here at home." He said the efforts to find solutions transcend partisan politics.

"Peace and freedom in the world, and peace and progress here at home," the statement continued, "will depend on the decisions of the next president of the United States.

"For these critical years, America needs new leadership."

Nixon reminded the voters of his 14 years of experience in Washington, during which, he said, "I learned the awesome nature of the great decisions a president faces." He went on:

"During the past eight years I have had the chance to reflect on the lessons of public office, to measure the nation's tasks and its problems to the needs of the present, and to the entire sweep of this final third of the 20th century.

"And I believe I have found some answers."

In the GOP Convention, the winner of the nomination will need a minimum of 667 delegate votes out of the total of 1,333.

Some political analysts have estimated that Nixon may already have lined up between 350 and 400 delegate votes.

Stock Mart Stages Big Technical Rise

New York (AP)—To no one's surprise on Wall Street, the stock market mounted a sharp technical rally Thursday. Trading was active.

Glamor stocks, which have been battered unmercifully for several sessions, snapped back with sharp recoveries. Blue chips tagged along, rising enough to give all the averages and indexes substantial gains.

Before the session started, analysts said in many printed advisories that the market was either oversold or getting there fast and that the customary snapback was about due. How sustained it would be was another question.

Stock prices were slightly lower at the start, then glamor stocks began to rise. In late morning they clipped back their gains. After President Johnson's economic message came across the wires the uptrend resumed more strongly.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 5.89 to 861.36.

At the start of trading the average was not far above the Nov. 8 closing low of 849.57—the level from which the market rallied to its interim high of 906.84 on Jan. 2.

Volume was a brisk 10.6 million shares compared with 9.42 million Wednesday, both husky totals for shortened, four-hour sessions.

The recovery did not quite succeed in carrying a plurality of stocks with it. Of 1,452 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 612 rose and 602 fell. New highs for 1967-'68 totaled 13 and new lows 28.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks made a sharp gain of 2.4 at 315.4 with industrials up 3.2, rails up 1.1 and utilities up 1.4.

The advance of market values was amply confirmed by the New York Stock Exchange index, which gained 15 cents at $51.82.

Highlighting the market snapback, IBM rose 5, Xerox 2¾, Control Data 5¾, Teledyne 9, Monogram Industries 2 and Sanders Associates 1½—all glamor stocks recently depressed.

A recovery move on the American Stock Exchange didn't quite make the grade as more stocks fell than rose.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Differences Cited Between Genuine, Illusory Growth

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Meaningful Expansion

In these inflationary times with big volume sales, growth has become a word to conjure with.

If a company's expansion is meaningful, the tempo of increase in profits is greater than for the average corporation. Then the issue arises as to how to capitalize such an expectation of extraordinary growth. Sometimes glamour stocks are so excessively valued at the marketplace that the buyer yields the expected benefits to the seller.

It is essential to determine that growth, current and prospective, is genuine and is not manipulated by inconsistent accounting methods or other devices. The growth is illusory if it is mainly in the number of shares that the investor gets as a result of stock splits. Four quarters are still only worth a dollar.

Thus, a four for one split is significant only if accompanied by improvement in earnings and by the expectation of the directors that the trend warrants an increase in total cash dividends.

Popular Confusion

The popular confusion is shown in my mailbag. A woman reader in Wayne, N.J. writes: "Please advise me what stock split means and, if dividends are given on each additional share or are they decreased or the same as before the stock split on each share held? I depend on these dividends for a livelihood."

The query recalls a remark made by Edward H. Cornish, developer of the National Lead Company, who said: "I run the company for the benefit of stockholders who want to stay with the company, not for those who want to get out."

If Cornish's yardstick is followed, then stock splits should be an expression of corporate affluence and an indication that cash dividends will be enlarged.

On the other hand, if there is no relationship between stock splits and improved corporate earnings, then the split is merely a merchandising device to make the stock seem cheaper to suckers. A split is a technique for recapitalization of a company by increasing the number of shares outstanding. If each stockholder retains his increased number of shares, then his percentage position as an owner is unchanged. With a stock split, there is a new decision as to dividend payments per share and customarily a compensatory reduction.

Motive In Splits

A motive in stock splits is to reduce the price per share to attract a larger following. But, if cash dividends and company earnings are static, a four for one split, bringing the previous $100 stock down to $25 a share, has not changed the fundamental relationships.

Some corporations habitually pay dividends in stock instead of in cash. This is a means of conserving cash for corporate purposes, and has the same practical effect of selling new stock. The method saves the cost of new financing, including paying commissions to underwriters, the cost of printing prospectuses, and of advertising.

Q. — A professional man in Los Angeles writes: "I enjoy your worthwhile suggestions very much. I would like your offered list of closed-end funds. Recently I have become aware of another type of fund which is unique in that it can use various forms of leverage (convertible bonds, calls and short sales)."

A. — The nation has been going through a revolutionary change in attitudes toward investment. There has been a rapid increase in mutual funds designed which offer automatic diversification and professional management of funds. Recently some of the so-called performance funds have turned from long term investment to in-and-out trading.

The newest wrinkle is development of funds which resemble the speculative pools of the 1920's. Each of these must be judged on the reputation and experience of the managers. If satisfied with the human element, then the saver has to decide whether he wants to give others discretion to speculate for his account.

A pioneer of this brand new type is described as a no-load, hedged, leverage growth fund. The fund is permitted to sell short, hedge, trade for the short term, borrow money for investment and invest in puts and calls. The managers defend these privileges as tools for avoiding capital shrinkage during declining markets. While the risks are large in such an arrangement, there is theoretical justification for not setting up investment funds so that they always have to be bullish.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Committee Forms To Re-Elect Ross To Post In GOP

A committee for the re-election of Donald R. Ross as Republican National Committeeman, comprising leading Republicans and Republican party officers, was announced Thursday by Robert B. Crosby.

Crosby, former Nebraska governor, was chairman of a similar committee supporting National Committeeman Ross in 1964.

Ross, an Omaha attorney, has been national committeeman from Nebraska since 1958, and since 1965 has served as vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Delegates to the Republican State Convention will meet in Omaha March 22 in connection with the Republican Founders' Day, at which time they will elect a national committeeman and committeewoman.

Youth Attacks 14-Year-Old Girl

Lincoln police are looking for a 15 or 16-year-old youth dressed in faded blue denim trousers and jacket who assaulted a 14-year-old Lincoln girl at 11th and Sumner Thursday morning.

The girl told authorities she was walking to school when the youth stopped her, grabbed her around the waist and pulled her to the ground.

The girl started screaming and fighting and the youth ran away, police said.

Jaycees, City Church Group Will Direct 'Jobs For Youth'

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Jaycees will coordinate activity for the 1968 "Jobs for Youth" program and the Lincoln Council of Churches will assist in finding jobs for underprivileged youth.

Gary Hill, vice chairman of the Mayor's Human Relations Commission, told the commission Thursday that Jaycees Kay Rising, as chairman, and Ev Larson, as program director, will head the program this year.

Rev. Carroll Lemon of the church council was invited to sit in executive committee sessions as part of a new emphasis on asking church congregations throughout the community to join other employers in creating jobs.

Hill was in charge of the Jobs for Youth program in 1967.

Counseling Aspect

He told the commission that further emphasis will be placed on finding jobs for underprivileged girls and on the counseling aspect of the program.

Last year the program was headquartered at Newman Methodist Church, 23rd and S. Two full time counselors and a coordinator worked in cooperation with the Lincoln Action Program and the State Employment Service.

Sixty youths were placed in the program and 34 worked out satisfactorily for the entire summer.

Hill said that sponsors felt the basic reasons for the high dropout rate were difficulty in adjusting to an eight-hour work day, a lack of motivation inspired in the youngsters and a lack of follow-up counseling of those who started to drop out.

He said that a "highpowered counseling program," consisting of one counselor for every five youths entered in the program, will help to increase the effectiveness of Jobs for Youth.

Hill noted, while suggesting that churches participate in the program, that "some of the good church people in this town are expressing indignation" that jobs are not open for underprivileged youth, but have not offered help.

'Plainly Apathetic'

Rev. Lemon replied "not all church people are expressing indignation, some are plainly apathetic." He offered his assistance in "making as strong a pitch as we can."

Other human relations commission business:

—Chan Tyrrell was named to coordinate all commission efforts directed toward relocating people in the Malone area who are displaced from their homes by public action.

—Commission member Harry Peterson proposed offering a certificate of appreciation on an annual basis to persons in the community who have aided the commission in combating discriminatory practices.

—Hill and Peterson said they are proceding with a survey of the Lincoln Police Department to see if public relations between city government and minority groups should be bettered.

They have contacted only ex-policemen thus far, Hill said.

—The commission said it will publish a newsletter once every two months.

Foundation Funds OKd For Schools, Lin-Co-Y

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Foundation executive committtee members Thursday granted a total of $5,950 to the Lincoln Public Schools, Lin-Co-Y and the Council on Alcoholism to aid various phases of the groups' programs.

The approved appropriations included a 50% reduction of the amount requested by Lin-Co-Y and stipulated that the group obtain a matching sum.

Lin-Co-Y, represented by Dr. Don O. Clifton, asked the Lincoln Foundation for $6,056 to help finance operation of the joint YMCA-YWCA programs for high school youths.

Executive committee members approved $3,000 for the youth clubs.

James Arnot informed the group that the YMCA had been able to raise $3,500 from its budget toward the project and is considering proposing a $12 increase in the membership fees and adding a 20% administrative charge to the cost of certain activities of the Lin-Co-Y.

With a $6,000 Lincoln Foundation grant and the revenue from fee increases, if approved by the youth and YMCA board, the annual $12,-500 Lin-Co-Y program could be continued another year, he said.

Nearly 1,000 boys and girls participate in its 83 clubs, it was reported.

Dormitory Revenue

By 1970, revenue from the new YMCA building's dormitory can be used to subsidize the program, according to Executive Director William Schenk.

The foundation granted $2,-150 to the Lincoln Public Schools to enable the composer in residence program to continue a second year. The amount matches a $5,500 Ford Foundation grant to pay composer Louis Angelini for another year's work in experimental projects with secondary instrumental and vocal music students.

The Ford Foundation financed the entire program for the 1967-68 school year.

Leading the presentation of the application, School Supt. John Prasch said he thinks it is "more appropriate to look to private funds for this kind of project," reserving tax funds for higher priority programs which affect all students.

Detoxification Facility

An $800 grant to finance a one-day examiniation of the St. Louis, Mo., detoxification facility by 10 Lincolnites also received foundation approval.

Officials from city and county government, county welfare, Police Department, Health and Hospital Council, and representatives of other agencies concerned with alcoholism would be invited on the trip, Edward Eggert, director of the Alcoholism Council, reported.

The study group is investigating establishment of a detoxification facility here to care for persons in need of hospitalization for alcoholism before rehabilitation treatment can be administered.

In other bausiness, Lincoln Community Council Executive Secretary John Goessman reported that the city indicated it is unable to match the foundation's $5,000 grant for a housing coordinator in the Malone Center area.

Goessman said his office is undertaking a speedy survey of the Malone area to establish boundaries, determine a socio-economic picture and find program priorities before any further recommendations are made to the foundation concerning the housing assistance project.

Group Scheduled To Follow Up On Centennial Plans

Grand Island — Nebraska's second 100 years will receive consideration at the meeting of the Nebraska Congress of Organizations here Feb. 22.

This organization is designed to follow through on some of the projects undertaken and started by the Nebraska Centennial Commission.

The Nebraska Centennial Non-Profit Association has invested $10,000 in the Nebraskaland Foundation, with the understanding that this foundation will broaden its program of work and reorganize its committees similar to the Centennial Commission.

At the Grand Island meeting a committee structure will be discussed to give representation to all groups in Nebraska interested in the state's future, according to Don H. Shriner, who served as director of the Centennial Commission.

Lincoln To Get Neighborhood Youth Corps

The U.S. Department of Labor has approved a $255,610 Neighborhood Youth project in Lincoln which will provide 335 job opportunities for young people 16 to 21, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz announced Thursday.

The Department of Labor will supply the Lincoln Action Program, the sponsor of the project, with $255,670 for the $255,610 program, Wirtz said.

The project will provide jobs for 140 in-school and 45 out-of-school young people, with another 150 jobs furnished during the summer, he said.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps, a poverty war program administered by the Labor Department, is designed to make it possible for youth from low income families to stay in school, return to school if they have left it or receive vocational training.

After more than two hours battling the flames, firemen declared the structure a total loss.

Firemen remained on the scene pouring water on the charred ruins.

There was no immediate estimate of the dollar loss, however the one-story building had been completely remodeled only last May.

Inland Insurance, Universal Surety Report Record Highs

Record highs were reached during 1967 in the combined policyholders surplus, assets and fidelity and surety bond premiums, officials of the Universal Surety and Inland Insurance Cos. reported Thursday at the two companies' joint stockholders meeting.

The policyholders surplus was $6,128,000 with gross additions of approximately 10% over 1966. Assets set a record of $7,795,000 and bond premiums also reached an all-time high in 1967, officials said.

"A continuation of improved underwriting results as reported at the 1966 meeting" was noted. The companies said that they had "an underwriting profit for 1967 during a year in which catastrophe losses and large fires were prevlaent."

Officers elected were Gene H. Tallman, president; Fred N. Bettge, vice president and controller; James W. Hewitt, vice president and general counsel; C. W. Hansen, secretary and treasurer; W. H. Bennett, assistant vice president of surety and fidelity dept.; Celia Tomaszewski, assistant vice president of surety and fidelity dept., and Keith R. Re-elected to the board of directors were George P. Abel, Bettge, E. J. Faulkner, Hansen, Hewitt and Tallman.

Certified Hearing Aid Audiologist

In only two decades the correction of hearing deficiencies has progressed from the simple expedient of equipping a hard of hearing person with a sound amplifier, to a science of precision "fitting" the correct hearing aid to each individual hearing loss.
Now with a "Master Hearing Aid", its complicated transistorized circuits can be adjusted to duplicate the performances of all the various types of aids. Thus by determining one's requirements in the FOUR important "dimensions" of hearing, a proper hearing aid can be "set up".

Tax Cut Given Priority At War's End

Washington (AP) — A tax cut would get top priority in a potential 18-month demobilization following an end to the Vietnam war, the Council of Economic Advisers said Thursday.

In making its first report on a study into federal policy after Vietnam, the council assumed a reduction in the armed forces of about 50,000 men monthly over 18 months to about 2.6 million, just below the pre-Vietnam level.

And it said removal of the 10% tax surcharge now sought by President Johnson "would be first on the agenda of possible stimulative measures."

The council said its outline for demobilization is merely an assumption and not a statement of policy or a prediction by the governmental commmittee studynig post-Vietnam policy.

Johnson created the committee one year ago to recommend a transition to a full peacetime economy once the Vietnam war ends.

The council foresaw after Vietnam expansions in such fields as education, health, housing, air and water pollution control, highway beautification and safety, elimination of urban blight and development of low cost rapid transit.

Other post-Vietnam possibilities, the council said, are a so-called negative income tax to help raise the standard of living for the poor and the sharing of federal revenues with the states and localities.

In its report, the council assumed the return of defense outlays to their 1963-65 level — about $50 billion a year— compared with military spending of $76.7 billion projected for the next fiscal year which begins July 1.

Of the 900,000 veterans released over that period, the council said up to a third would resume their schooling while the remainder would seek full-time civilian jobs.

Surcharge Below 10% Could Be Acceptable

Washington (AP) — Although the administration is insisting on a 10% income tax surcharge, there are increasing signs that something less will be acceptable.

It undoubtedly will boil down to just how much Congress will approve, if anything. Key congressional leaders have balked thus far at a 10% surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes, a measure they have been sitting on since last Aug. 3.

The first firm hint of a possible yielding in administration attitude went virtually unnoticed at a news briefing on the $186.1-billion budget submitted to Congress last Monday.

At that session, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler backed up President Johnson's strong appeal for the 10% surcharge but left the door open for less.

"It will be taken by affirmative action on the President's tax proposal as proposed or in amended form or simply by failure to act. This is the first and decisive issue presented by the President's budget," he said.

Now it is learned that the phrase "or in amended form" was included deliberately to show that the administration's stand is not an all-or-nothing position; that officials are willing to face reality if Congress comes up with a lower rate despite their belief that 10% is needed.

Carleton W. Voltz, of Lake Zurich, Ill., a former Army helicopter pilot captured by North Koreans in 1963, described his life as a prisoner and said, "I hope that they don't treat the 83 crew members of the USS Pueblo like they treated me."

Dodge, the United States Defense Department spacecraft, was the most sophisticated of the 250 American satellites in orbit as of November 1967. Dodge carries spare parts and can repair itself electronically.

Terry Raps Regents' Drug Stand

Scottsbluff (UPI) — Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said Thursday the University of Nebraska Board of Regents is trying to cover up drug abuses on the NU campus.

Carpenter said he has received a letter from the regents explaining its policy on drugs on the campus and that "from it (the letter) I can tell the Regents and I are not in agreement on the matter."

"They obviously don't feel the need for the undercover agents," Carpenter said, "and as far as I'm concerned their attitude is an attempt to sweep the problem under the rug."

Commenting on a recent letter published in the Daily Nebraskan campus paper in which 18 NU professors voiced their objection to the 1967 drug control law, Carpenter said the regents and the teachers "are in complete agreement."

The signers of the letter object to the law on the grounds it is arbitrary in its enforcement and the "excessive harshness of its penalties and the tendency to make illicit trade in drugs a highly profitable business."

The professors also objected to the use of undercover agents except "where the clearest and most serious danger to the common good existed."

Carpetner said both the teachers and the regents are "operating from the realm of theory."

"The clear fact," he said, "is that there is widespread use of marijuana on the campus which is developing into a greater and greater problem.

"We have the legal tools to stop its further spread and we should use them."

Carpenter has said he will introduce legislation in the next session of the Legislature calling for a one half million dollars yearly appropriation for the Narcotics Division of the State Patrol in order to insure statewide enforcement of drug laws.

Quarter System Considered As Possibility For NU, OU

Omaha (AP) — The possibility of initiating the quarter system, in which the year is divided into four terms of equal length, at both the University of Nebraska and the University of Omaha was discussed Thursday by faculty representatives of the two schools.

At a meeting of the merger steering committee at the OU campus, it was announced that faculty members will report their findings to the committee soon. Both schools at present operate on the semester system.

Gene Budig, administrative assistant to Chancellor Clifford Hardin, said the quarter system is being considered by the steering committee as a means of attaining a goal of coordinated year-around use of facilities on both campuses.

Among other matters discussed, the committee talked of early coordination of library services at the two schools.

The committee also set up a subcommittee to explore the faculty and administrative transportation needs at Omaha University and suggested an early meeting of the deans of student affairs of both schools.

The steering committee is to smooth the way for the orderly merger of the two schools this year. The merger of the municipal university and the University of Nebraska was approved by Omaha voters in an election last year.

Ashland Man Dies Of Natural Causes—Lahners

The death of an Ashland man whose car left Highway 6 east of Lincoln Thursday afternoon has been attributed to natural causes, according to Deputy Lancaster County Attorney Ron Lahners.

The man was identified as Clarence C. Folsom, 59.

Witnesses said Folsom's westbound car left the highway, struck down a fence and came to a halt several hundred feet into a cornfield about a mile from the east edge of Lincoln.

Friends Of Higher Education File Incorporation Articles

Articles of incorporation were filed here Thursday with the secretary of state for the Friends of Higher Education interested in assisting and improving all levels of post high school education in Nebraska.

The nine incorporators have not yet determined any specific action to carry out its purpose, reported the group's attorney David Tews.

The Friends of Higher Education will draw its membership from all over the state, he said.

Tews described the first board of directors as a "dedicated group of individuals interested in all levels of higher education. They feel the future of the state depends on how well educated its citizens are."

Listed as incorporators were George B. Cook, E. J. Faulkner, Thomas C. Woods Jr., Paul J. Amen, D. I. Parker, John M. Campbell, C. E. Swanson and Burnham Yates, all of Lincoln, and W. W. Cook of Beatrice.

Arson Seen In Church Fires

Hillsboro, Tex. (AP) — Fires in the Negro section early Thursday raked three churches and four houses, destroying two of the churches and two dwellings.

The area's third church and two houses were heavily damaged.

Police said no arrests had been made but investigations were continuing.

Norman Honeycutt, Hillsboro fire marshal, said there was definite evidence of arson.

Dallas Fire Marshal Hal Hood said he found evidence of three separate fires set in one church.

Fire departments from more than a dozen towns sent units to Hillsboro, which is an old cotton belt town between Dallas and Waco, to fight the almost simultaneous blazes.

Students Told Smoking Largely Psychological

By DAN DICKMEYER
Star Staff Writer

Decorating the podium and walls of Morrill Hall's classroom No. 20 at the University of Nebraska were bright, red-lettered signs required by state law: "No Smoking."

Half the audience gathered there Thursday apparently couldn't have cared less. In a show of hands, about half of the 50 students who attended an informational seminar on smoking indicated they were already non-smokers.

For those in the audience who were smokers, however, the basics of why people smoke and how they might take steps to stop were presented.

Smoking Test

The National Smoking Test, aired over CBS last month, was on the classroom television. Dr. Daniel Horn was on the screen. And he was in the audience.

When the test was over he got up from his chair and told the audience: "My guess is that initiation and maintenance of smoking is largely psychological" as opposed to any physiological dependence on nicotine.

Dr. Horn is executive secretary of the National Clearing House on Smoking — an organization set up in 1964 after the U.S. surgeon general's report on the hazards of smoking.

His appearance on campus was sponsored by the University of Nebraska Health Center. He met with health center officials to examine their U.S. Public Health Service funded smoking project in which the center has been working to inform students about smoking through health assistants in the organized living units.

'It's Coming Thing'

In 1955 there were seven and one-half million people who had given up smoking, according to Dr. Horn. Now, though there are more smokers, that figure has risen to 19 million. According to Dr. Horn, "It's the coming thing" for every one that succeeds in breaking the habit four are trying.

"If different people get different things out of smoking, then the process of giving up has to be related to the reason for smoking," Dr. Horn said. "Half the battle is understanding why you smoke."

Dr. Horn believes that for a college student who recognizes why he smokes, giving up might not be as difficult because there has been less time for psychological addiction, which accounts for one-third of the reasons for adult smoking.

Smoking Reasons

Other reasons for smoking are for stimulation, for handling pleasure, as a means of relaxation, a psychological crutch or simply as habit, he said.

People who smoke because they are depressed or as psychological addiction have the hardest time quitting, according to Dr. Horn. For these people the only solution is to just quit. Even products designed as substitutes to smoking — nicotine tablets and mouthwashes — are ineffective except during the first few weeks, he said.

Moreover, according to Dr. Horn, "nicotine substitutes may cause stomach cramps or dangerous side effects if taken in an overdose. Of course, tranquilizers have their own problems."

Some smokers, particularly parents and physicians, quit smoking as an example or just becuase it is a challenge, he added.

Sellmeyer Testifies Marijuana 'Thrown Out'

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Police Capt. Lowell Sellmeyer testified Thursday that Charles Heiser, on trial before a Lancaster District Court jury for possession of cannabis, told him that he had thrown marijuana out the window at his house at 2010 F upon arrival of police.

Sellmeyer testified that two containers—one a plastic canister and the other a plastic bread sack—filled with marijuana were found outside the Heiser home on the night of Nov. 17 when police raided the house and arrested eight in connection with the presence of marijuana.

Earlier in Thursday's evidence presented by the state, Detective Paul Jacobson testified that when he arrived on the scene he saw an individual, he identified as Heiser, throw two containers out the kitchern window, which contained what was later found to be marijuana.

He said several people in the house were in the front area until police knocked at which time several rushed to the back of the house.

Sellmeyer further testified that he had informed Heiser of his constitutional rights by reading from a card which Lincoln police officers carry and use in informing persons under arrest of their rights.

Capt. Sellmeyer said that he asked Heiser if police officers might search his house to which Heiser responded, according to Sellmeyer, " 'Yes, I'll help you.' "

Capt. Sellmeyer said the defendant made his statements "freely and voluntarily" and told him that the contents of the two containers was marijuana.

Police identification officers Kenneth Smith and Stanley Gushard, who took fingerprints in connection with the incident, testified that Heiser's fingerprints were found on the plastic cannister container of marijuana.

The state is expected to complete its evidence Friday in the trial before a jury of seven women and five men.

Theft Of Furs Is Investigated

Lincoln police are investigating the Thursday morning theft of several furs from the Robert A. Wekesser residence at 5301 A.

Police said early reports indicated that furs valued at several thousand dollars were taken when unknown intruders forced their way into the home.

Police said no one was at home at the time of the burglary.

NCCY Told Legislation Needed To Aid Retarded

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth (NCCY) Thursday was urged to consider promoting legislation enabling closer relationship between private nonprofit and state agencies serving mentally retarded children.

"We need to develop some mechanism that would include all existing services for the mentally retarded in the overall state program," declared George Thomas, director of the newly created Division of Mental Retardation.

Thomas recommended that the committee study legislation that would allow direct relationship between state and private groups in order to expand available services without duplication of efforts.

He made the recommendation and two other legislative proposals in a report to 25 members and resource personnel of the statewide committee.

Private Home

With such enabling legislation, retarded persons being committed to an institution through the courts could be placed in a private facility such as the Martin Luther Home if the kind of treatment offered there was considered to be more appropriate for the committed individual than offered in a state institution.

The state also could use local mental retardation associations as volunteer referral agencies, Thomas pointed out.

According to him, "Nebraska is the only state that doesn't have this ability."

The division director traced the restriction to the state constitutional provision which states that "neither the state Legislature nor any county, city or other public corporation, shall ever make any appropriation from any public fund, or grant any public land in aid of any sectarian or denominational school or college, or any educational institution which is not exclusively owned and controlled by the state or governmental subdivision thereof."

Protective Service Bill

Thomas also suggested that NCCY include in its legislative studies a guardianship or protective service bill and an amendment to Beatrice State Home regulations permitting provision of services on an out-patient basis.

With more of the mildly retarded persons being served near their homes or returned home after some kind of training, the population at Beatrice should decrease, he said.

The facility at Beatrice "should not be turned into a purely custodial center," he declared, proposing that eventually the home could be used as one of the regional service centers intended for the entire state.

Helped Close To Home

Programs of the division, it was pointed out, will be aimed to coincide with the philosophy that the mentally retarded "should be helped as close to home as possible."

The division's responsibility is for mentally retarded persons excluded from the public schools. Under state law, public schools are required to provide classes for all school age trainable or educable mentally retarded children. The school programs are supervised by the State Department of Special Education.

"We're interested in any type of program that will better equip the retarded person to live in his community," Thomas said.

The division is cooperating with research and study projects on mental retardation and treatment, developing a consultative center with the University of Nebraska, and assisting establishment of human development centers to train retarded persons.

NCCY members set their annual business meeting for 6:30 p.m. March 27 and a statewide conference on NCCY concerns of health, education, recreation, welfare, juvenile problems, economic opportunities and spiritual development on March 28. Both functions will be held in Lincoln.
